Directors of B.C. Airways to Decide Ordering of Plane

Ford Plant Advised by Department of National Defence That They Approve Replacement With Similar Plane—Flotation System Perfected, Eve Bros. Informed

Finding of Board of Inquiry Corrects First Report Given

DIRECTORS of the B.C. Airways, Limited, will meet early this week to decide upon the replacement of the Ford monoplane, which was wrecked on August 25, Mr. Ernest Eve, president of the company, stated that, while the directors of the company would have to make the decision, he had no doubt whatever that the Victoria-Seattle and Vancouver passenger and eight air service would be resumed very soon.

Decision in the matter of replacing the monoplane had been delayed until the actual finding of the board of inquiry, which investigated the wreck of the monoplane, was received. This finding had been received and was found to give an entirely different complexion to the first report received over the news from Ottawa. The same type machine will be used again in the replacement of the Ford airplane plant. The board of inquiry, which was held in a telephone room at the Canadian Department of National Defence (air service) has approved of replacement with a similar machine, while Ford himself advises that his plant has developed a system of flotation, which will keep the machine above water indefinitely.

Replacement of the fourteen-passenger monoplane only awaits the

BRITISH BUILD PLANE FOR 360 MILES AN HOUR

Now Completing Tests at Felixstowe—Official Attempt at Record to Be This Month at Calshot

PILOT IS TAKING SPECIAL TRAINING

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The fastest flying machine ever designed by man is now completing its tests in Felixstowe behind a veil of official secrecy. It is the supermarine S-5, which has been built to beat the record of 318 miles an hour at present held by Italy. It is hoped that this machine will show a speed of 360 miles an hour, or six miles a minute.

Flight-Lieut. D'Arcy Greig, a twenty-eight-year-old Scotsman, will be the pilot. The supermarine S-5, the pilot of the supermarine S-5, has been in strict training for some weeks, a training which not only includes flying, but also constant work on the fastest seaplanes in existence, at ever-increasing speeds. The official attempt on the record will be made at Calshot this month.

STRICT SECRECY

Extraordinary precautions have been taken by the authorities to prevent details of the performance of the new craft from leaking out. Few people even here have seen the new speed machine. Tests are only made at dawn, when few people about, and there is as a rule little or no wind. The new machine differs in many important respects from the Schneider Trophy machines, which won at Venice last year and attained speeds in the neighborhood of 300 miles an hour. Details of the modifications cannot yet be given, but still greater streamlining has been found possible, producing a considerably higher speed.

ZEPPELIN TO TRY ROUTE VIA ARCTIC

KONIGSBERG, Germany, Oct. 13.—A Zeppelin flight between Europe and the United States, by way of the Arctic regions, is planned, in order to determine the practicability of the Arctic route. The flight will probably be made next May or June.

Fatal Chemistry

PORTLAND, Oct. 13.—Using a formula which they learned in their high school chemistry classes for the manufacture of gunpowder, Ralph Elmgren, sixteen, was fatally injured, and his brother, Ernest, eighteen, lost his left hand, when a quantity of their home-made powder exploded at their home today. Ralph died in a hospital six hours after the accident. It was believed tonight that Ernest would recover.

Architect's Design for Jubilee Hospital Group

While the directors of the Jubilee Hospital are considering an appeal to the public for the new Nurses' Home, opinion is being canvassed as to whether it would be desirable, in making this appeal, to proceed further with the comprehensive scheme for the Jubilee Hospital approved in 1913, of which the above is an architect's drawing. At present the portion on the right—the East Wing—is in use, and already overcrowded.

ELEVATOR RATE NEXT ANGLE OF POWER PARLEY

In Order to Increase Storage at Jordan River, Company Is Faced With Huge Expenditure

PRESENT WORKS PART OF SCHEME

When the negotiations between the civic industrial committee and the B.C. Electric Railway Company's officials are resumed tomorrow, the question of rates for the grain elevator will be discussed, opportunity being taken of the presence in the city of Mr. J. A. Mooney, of Regina, president of the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals, Limited.

WORKS IN HAND

The company's plants for development at Jordan River have been progressing steadily in the last few years. The second transmission line into Victoria was first constructed to guard against interruptions from winter storms. Now in hand is the heavy task of rebuilding the flume from the main dam to the forebay reservoir. In reconstructing it an enlargement by fifty per cent is in progress to take care of waters to be impounded higher up the valley. It is this work which is employing a large staff of men at Jordan River all the time. There being upwards of 6,000,000 feet of lumber used in the reconstruction and enlargement of the flume. Some of the wooden trestles crossing the ravines have been replaced with permanent structures built of reinforced concrete.

In the distribution end plans are in hand for the new substation in the city, upon which work has already begun.

CONSERVATIVES PLAN TO MEET

EXECUTIVE SETS DATE FOR CONFERENCE OF B.C. CONSERVATIVE ASS'N

Gathering of Representatives of All Ridings of Province on November 17

The British Columbia Conservative Association will meet in Vancouver on Saturday, November 17. This was the decision reached at the meeting of the provincial executive of the organization at its meeting in the Terminal City yesterday.

In preparation for this gathering next month, the president of the provincial association, Hon. Nels S. Loughhead, was empowered to name a committee to carry out the arrangements for the convention. The committee will make arrangements for the entertainment of the delegates who will embrace the Conservative members of the House of Commons from British Columbia, the Senators and the members of the Legislature, together with the duly appointed delegates from the forty ridings in the province.

Practically all the members of the Provincial Government were present at the meeting of the executive.

Health Association Elects Dr. N. Harris

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13.—Dr. Norman M. Harris, Ottawa, was elected president of the Canadian Public Health Association at the closing session of the annual convention here today.

Piano Music Supplanted By Purrr of Automobiles In New Victoria Homes

AFTER touring Victoria to inspect property on which appeals had been made against the city, I am even more convinced that there are more autos than pianos in the city of Victoria. Alderman William Marchant, chairman of the Court of Revision of the City Council, stated yesterday in commenting upon the assessment roll for 1929.

"Gauges have become parts of houses, and are no longer accessories. I don't know whether it is because there is less home life now than there was in the past, but I am very much impressed with the increasing number of small homes with garages attached, homes in which the rooms are not large. It would seem that the auto is no longer a luxury but a necessity."

Alderman Marchant said that the court had considered 160 appeals against the 1929 assessment. A large number arose on account of apparent increase in taxation. People who had felt the pinch of growing values in real estate placed on certain property were much in evidence among those who appealed to the court.

APPEALS ANALYZED

"Generally speaking the appeals were against taxes rather than against assessments. A great many appellants stressed the fact that they had tried to sell their property at the proper value but had been unsuccessful. They had been compelled to place lower prices upon it."

Although handicapped at the beginning of the year with unpaid accounts amounting to $66,000, the city's financial condition as announced yesterday by Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, is considerably improved with a new record set for tax collections and every prospect for a slight reduction in taxation being possible next year. Of the $1,711,135 levy of current general and frontage taxes, a total of $1,494,000 had been collected up to October 11. It is estimated that between now and the end of the year another $22,000 will be collected, which will make total collections close to 89.5 per cent.

"The figures submitted are very encouraging. The collections are better this year than last, although there is an increase in the mill rate. It is too early at this time to prophesy as to the next year's rate, although the outlook is promising for a slight reduction."

Mr. D. A. MacDonald, city comptroller, when questioned with respect to the report, said that last year the percentage of collections was 88.94, but that this year the percentage would be half of 1 per cent higher than last year, "which in view of the increased tax rate must be considered very satisfactory."

HIGHER PERCENTAGE

Up to October 11 the percentage of collections was 87.31. The estimate of $22,000 more in taxes being collected between now and the end of the year is a conservative one, so that Mr. MacDonald felt confident in stating that this year the percentage of collections would be 89.5 per cent.

"We budgeted this year on collections of 89.94 per cent, the same as last year, so that our probable collections are in the neighborhood of $5,000 in excess of the estimates."

Mr. MacDonald said.

THROUGH AIR MAIL FROM WHITE HORSE TO DAWSON BEGINS

WHITE HORSE, Y.T., Oct. 13.—The first regular through air mail from White Horse to Dawson left at 11:13 a.m. today when Captain T. G. Stephens hopped off with the Fairchild plane now in the service of the Greenfield & Pickering Royal Mail Line, with 650 pounds of first-class mail for Dawson. Captain Stephens proposes following an almost direct air route and expected to make the trip in two and a half to three hours, depending on weather conditions.

Capt. Warnop's Ashes Scattered in Harbor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13.—The launch Fusa of the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners put off from the float of the Immigration office this afternoon, bearing the ashes of Captain Thomas H. Warnop, former port warden. According to the immortal custom of the sea the launch was steered into each of the four points of the compass, and each time the helm was swung Harbormaster A. H. Reed, commander R.N.R., scattered a portion of the ashes over the face of the link.

NEW RECORD SET FOR TAX COLLECTIONS

Percentage of Collections Will Be 89.5 Per Cent by End of Year, Alderman Announces

TAX REDUCTION IS ANTICIPATED

Although handicapped at the beginning of the year with unpaid accounts amounting to $66,000, the city's financial condition as announced yesterday by Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, is considerably improved with a new record set for tax collections and every prospect for a slight reduction in taxation being possible next year.

GRAF ZEPPELIN STILL FAR OUT OVER ATLANTIC

Air Liner Last Reported Near Bermuda—Traveling at Three-Fourths Normal Speed

ARRIVAL SET FOR THIS AFTERNOON

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Radio Marine Corporation at Chatham, Mass., at 11:15 p.m., Eastern Standard time, received a message from the Graf Zeppelin, giving her position as 63° W. and 34° 40' N. This indicates that the Zeppelin was taking a northward course, and at the time the message was sent would place her about 100 miles northwest of Bermuda.

Lieut.-Commander Charles Rosendahl, U.S.N., a guest on the first commercial transatlantic flight, radioed at 7 o'clock, Eastern Standard time, last night, that the Zeppelin was proceeding comfortably at about three-quarters of its normal air speed, which would bring it to Lakehurst this afternoon.

On interpretation of the message was that Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, finding it possible to arrive at his destination this morning, had slowed the speed of the craft in order not to defeat the elaborate reception plans which had been made on the assumption that he could not reach Lakehurst before afternoon.

After his mishap of the morning, when torn fabric on the port horizontal fin had reduced the dirigible's speed for several hours, it had steadily progressed through the day and evening. American radio stations were enabled to maintain frequent communication with the big airship while the European stations had lost contact.

JOINT COMMISSION ADJOURNS SESSIONS

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13.—The international joint commission which has been investigating the effects of the smelter fumes from Trail on the farming lands south of the international border has adjourned to await a report from experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, who have been making scientific investigations of the lands in question, stated George W. Kite, K.C., here today on his arrival from Northport.

HEARD IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 14 (Sunday).—George E. Randall, electrician for the Portland school district, said this morning that he had intercepted a message from the Graf Zeppelin, now over the coast of St. David Island, off the coast of Pacific time, the message said. The communication intercepted by Randall said head winds were being encountered, but that they were lighter than had been expected from weather reports. The message said the Zeppelin expected to arrive over the link.

Trains Crash at Siding; Fierce Fire Breaks Out; Third Train Piles Atop

Leeds-Bristol Express Runs Into Freight Near Gloucester—Explosions Set Both Trains Aflame—Third Train Ploughs Into Wreckage—Ten Killed, Forty Injured

Six Fire Brigades Race to Scene, But Conflagration Not Subdued for Hours

LOUCESTER, Eng., Oct. 13.—British newspapers are full of stories of horror and heroism of the railway disaster at Charlfield, between this city and Bristol, early today, when at least ten persons were killed and forty injured in a triple collision in the darkness and fog. The London-Midland and Scottish Railway's Express from Leeds to Bristol first collided with a freight train standing on the main line.

The driver of the latter frantically tried to get into a siding when it was realized the express was due, but his effort failed and the express crashed into the train.

Immediately a series of explosions followed, due probably to inflammable material carried on the freight. Then fire broke out in both trains and within a few minutes great flames were shooting high in the air.

Adding to the horror and confusion and increasing the casualties, a second freight train ran into the wreckage of the two trains a little later.

BOMBERS WRECK WORKERS' HOMES

MELBOURNE, Oct. 13.—The home of a stevedore foreman was wrecked during the night by a bomb exploded as a demonstration in connection with the dock workers' strike. A number of children had a narrow escape from injury. Two other homes have been bombed previously in the Melbourne district and the reward for detection of the bombers today was raised to £500. Police suggested that it be made £2,000.

TRUCK DRIVER BURNS

PORTLAND, Oct. 13.—Ernest Sandy, thirty-two, of Walla Walla, died in a hospital here tonight a few hours after he had been dragged from beneath his flaming overturned truck on the Base Line Road near here.

Although the wreck was not witnessed, it is believed the truck overturned when Sandy had fallen asleep. Gasoline in the tank ignited.

SECRETARY FOR INDIA RESIGNS

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED BY PREMIER BALDWIN

Letters Exchanged to Be Published in Few Days—Political Career at End

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(United Press).—Lord Birkenhead's resignation, again submitted to Premier Baldwin, has been accepted and will take effect immediately. The reported resignation was contradicted, but on consultation with Mr. Baldwin in the middle of last week, Lord Birkenhead again presented his plea to be released, to enable him to pursue commercial activities in the city.

Mr. Baldwin, not wishing to stand in the way of Lord Birkenhead's desire, agreed to his withdrawal from the Cabinet. It is understood that letters have been exchanged between the Premier and Lord Birkenhead, which will be published in a few days, officially concluding the arrangements.

The announcement marks Lord Birkenhead's final severance from politics and closes a brilliant political career.

Lord Birkenhead formerly was Mr. F. E. Smith. He was knighted in 1918, became a baronet in 1919, a baron the following year and an earl in 1922. Apart from standard work in international law, one of his most notable contributions to literature was "Contemporary Personalities," a series of clever sketches of men prominent in law, religion and politics.

INDIA COMMISSION RESUMES SITTINGS

POONA, Bombay, India, Oct. 13.—The Simon Commission, which is investigating legislative and Government conditions in India, and committees representing the central and provincial legislatures, resumed its sittings here today. Twenty-three members of the commission were present. Because of the opposition which had developed in some quarters against the commission, armed guards were posted around the meeting place.

It is a notable fact that the great statesman is far more severe on Labor than the Tories, which is probably due to the failure of Liberalism to have anything to do with the war, and a very emphatic operative with Labor to prevent the Tories winning constituencies on a minority vote.

Glynne, Lansbury and other Laborites have indicated that they will not have anything to do with the Liberal chief, asserting the Liberal party is dead and only waiting to be buried.

Lord Lovat Has Sudden Illness In New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Oct. 13.—(Province Cable).—Lord Lovat suffered a heart attack at New Plymouth. All his engagements are cancelled.

Upon being informed of the illness of Lord Lovat, Premier Tolmie, who had recently conferred with the Lordship on immigration matters, immediately dispatched a telegram expressing his regret at an indisposition and hopes for his speedy recovery.

PREMIER TELLS OF PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT

that this will be upon the basis of costs that the farmer can bear. The occasion of Premier Tolmie's address was a banquet given by the Conservatives of Vancouver to Hon. W. C. Sheely, Minister of Finance; Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., Minister without portfolio; and Messrs. William Dick, M.P.P.; Thomas H. Kirk, M.P.P.; Colonel Nelson Spencer, M.P.P.; and George A. Walkem, M.P.P. In addition to Premier Tolmie and the Vancouver ministers, practically the whole cabinet was in attendance, as well as members of the executive of the Provincial Conservative Association.

PREMIER'S SPEECH
It was in response to the toast of "The Province of British Columbia," proposed by Thomas A. Lamb, that the Premier spoke. He briefly touched upon the manner in which Nature had endowed British Columbia with a wealth of resources, passed on to touch upon the recent victory of his party at the polls, and paid tribute to the Vancouver representatives in the cabinet.

While the Government was finding many matters to occupy its attention, he went on, the cabinet was commencing to see daylight, and, as a result of a clearing away of much of the detail work which had accumulated, time was available for the consideration of many matters of great importance.

The P.C.E. had already claimed considerable attention from the Government. The P.C.E. was attracting a great deal of favorable attention, not only in British Columbia but elsewhere, and inquiries were being received in regard to it and the potentialities of the country through which it passed. Interest, too, was being shown in the Peace River country and the extension of railway facilities to that section of the province. This was very pleasing, for upon it inquiries were being received in regard to it and the potentialities of the country through which it passed.

SUMAS PROBLEM
Turning to the Sumas reclamation problem, the Premier said that it was shortly hoped to have a plan for the settlement for those lands. "All that is wrong with Sumas," he added, "is that it cost too much. You cannot hope to put farmers on the land there to farm it profitably with the high overhead that those costs entail. If the costs are reasonable there is no doubt as to the success that can be made of farming at Sumas."

"No experimental farm or scientist in agriculture ever devised a way by which a farmer without money can make a success of farming without work," he said. "I added, 'is that it cost too much. You cannot hope to put farmers on the land there to farm it profitably with the high overhead that those costs entail. If the costs are reasonable there is no doubt as to the success that can be made of farming at Sumas.'"

IMMIGRATION
Referring to immigration, the Premier said: "I feel that we will be able to evolve a practical plan of settlement of our vacant lands with British stock. We are preparing a plan for Lord Lovat now. We feel that we, here, in British Columbia, are in possession of information which we can submit to him, and to which he and the British Government can give consideration. We propose in that rough plan that nothing be hidden, and give his opponents many brickbats for 'game rubbers.'" ready begun, the machinery having been on order for some time.

ADDITIONAL STORAGE
In connection with the potential supply of water for the diversion dam at Jordan River, and all the above works are auxiliary to this development, there are two tributaries of the Jordan River to which the management looks to augment the supply. Both Bear and Alligator Creeks flow into the Jordan River from the east. The Bear Creek reservoir, which is connected with the eastern end of the diversion reservoir, could be doubled in capacity at a cost of $429,867, while some distance down the valley Alligator Creek is crossed with a high level trestle to carry the flume. To develop the water in the Alligator Creek valley it is estimated a conservation dam would cost upwards of $1,100,000.

ROUND TABLE CONFERENCE
To determine what course will be taken, the company's officials are now giving consideration to the issue, and it is intended to discuss the future of the undertaking at a round table conference with Mr. George Kidd, president of the B.C. Electric Railway, at which the aldermen will have an opportunity of submitting their views with regard to increasing the water-power development on the Jordan River valley in keeping with increasing industrial requirements in the city.

To commemorate the centenary of Schubert's death, the entire programme will consist of numbers by this famous composer. Associate membership tickets are again being issued by the club, and these may now be obtained from any of the members.

PERSONAL MESSAGES

(Copyright by the North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The first personal messages from a passenger aboard the Graf Zeppelin, which received here from the giant liner this afternoon, only a few minutes before flashes announcing that the ship was having trouble. The messages sent to friends were from Dr. Robert Reiner, of Weehawken, N.J., a manufacturer.

The radio first received was to Harry Sanders, a business associate of Dr. Reiner, at 1 Park Row, New York. "We are making good speed," the message ran, "and we are having fair weather. We hope to arrive tomorrow, but we may get into Lakehurst earlier."

The next radio from Dr. Reiner, which came in shortly after the flash to Mr. Sanders, was addressed to August Janssen, 90 East 44th Street, New York. In this Dr. Reiner acknowledged the receipt of a dispatch which Mr. Janssen had sent him yesterday. In Mr. Janssen's radio he had told Dr. Reiner that he expected to see the air traveler immediately upon his arrival.

"Thanks for your radio," Dr. Reiner flashed back, "will be glad to see you upon my arrival. We are feeling perfectly safe aboard this great ship. We are comfortable and happy in this great experience, and we are making great speed." Dr. Reiner's friends here expressed concern when they heard a brief while later that the Zeppelin had reported himself disabled, and were correspondingly relieved when they were informed not long after that repairs had been effected and the big air liner was proceeding on her way.

the establishment of meteorological and weather reporting stations, the adoption of wireless telegraphy from the ground stations to aircraft in flight, also that pilots should not be licensed to fly aircraft transporting passengers without more rigid requirements than are at present insisted upon. JOHN Thomas, of 744 Discovery Street, met his death by drowning, it was learned in a long police telephone message with Provincial Police at Port Alberni. ONLY MENTION OF STORM

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Radio dispatches from the Graf Zeppelin tell of the herod of six members who defied death in their successful attempt to repair the damage to a rudder of the huge balloon in the thick of an ocean storm. Risking their lives as the airship roared through wind and rain the six men, including Knud Ekenker, son of Dr. Hugo Ekenker, the commander, volunteered for the hazardous job and climbed out on the exposed portion of the craft to carry out the repairs.

SOLDIER ADVOCATE TALKS TO VETERANS ON PENSION CASES

Mr. G. H. Sedger, soldier advocate for Victoria, was the speaker at the general meeting of the Canadian Pensioners' Association of the Great War, Victoria branch, held in the clubrooms on Friday. In an interesting address delivered to a capacity meeting of ex-service men, the speaker outlined his work with the Federal Appeal Board in his efforts to obtain pensions for disabled ex-service men, widows and dependents of the war. Mr. Sedger paid tribute to the commissioners of the Federal Appeal Board, stating that in all cases submitted to the board requesting pensions, at all times during the various sessions held he always received their co-operation and sympathy in every individual case. Various other phases of the Federal Appeal Board legislation were discussed.

A vote of appreciation was accorded the speaker for his able address and an assurance given from those present of their confidence in his ability to represent their claims to the Government. It was also suggested that in securing the services of Mr. Sedger as soldier advocate for Victoria that pensioners had obtained one who had the disabled soldier's welfare at heart.

A deputation was appointed from the branch to interview Hon. J. H. King, Department of Pensions and Health, Ottawa, who is now on a visit to Victoria to discuss pensions and other matters pertaining to the welfare of disabled ex-service men. Owing to the increasing membership, a committee was appointed to co-operate with the Amputations Association to find larger quarters. The next meeting of the branch will be held on Friday, October 26, at Room 64, Burrey Block, Yates Street, at 8 o'clock.

"When I was a small boy eczema broke out on my arms and legs in small pimples. As I grew older the eczema became wet and turned very red, and my clothing aggravated it. It itched and burned so that many a night I could not sleep. The trouble continued for six years. A friend advised me to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. I found great relief after using it so purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment which healed me. (Signed) Louis W. Thomas, 7124 Jasper Ave., Edmonton, Alta.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—With one man dead, several severely injured and all of her crew badly gassed, the British freighter Trojan Star today was proceeding under reduced steam to Vancouver, B.C., having quelled a fire in her hold fireroom, after an all-night fight off the coast of Northern California. GOV. AL. SMITH DECLARES FOR HIGH TARIFF

Protection "to the Very Limit" Is New Democratic Policy—Reason Given Is Post War Conditions

SPECIALLY ON FARM PRODUCTS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 13.—The Republican party was accused tonight by Governor Smith in an address prepared for his one and only speech in Kentucky, with having "grossly misrepresented" the Democratic attitude on the question of the tariff.

In giving his "prescription" on the tariff, the Democratic candidate set forth nine specific points, chief of which were as follows:

"First, I believe that the tariff should be taken out of politics and should be treated as a business and economic problem.

"Second, I believe in the Democratic platform which recognizes a new condition that committed the Democratic party to a definite stand in favor of such tariff schedules as will, to the very limit, protect legitimate business enterprises as well as American labor from ruinous competition of foreign-made goods produced under conditions far below the American standard.

"Third, I condemn the Republican policy of leaving the farmer outside our protective walls. On import crops he must be given equal protection with that afforded industry. On his other products means must be adopted to give him as well as industry the benefit of tariff protection.

"Fifth, no revision of any specific schedule will have approval of the Democratic party which in any way interferes with the American standard of living and level of wages."

Expert Buys Rugs for Western Canada

SINCE 1912, Mr. W. H. Sharpe, of the Hudson's Bay Company, has traveled more than 227,000 miles in search of Oriental rugs for the company's stores. Mr. Sharpe is seen in the centre of the picture with his hat off. Next to Mr. Sharpe, wearing the fez, is Mr. Millar, another of the company's rug buyers. The photograph was taken outside the walls of Constantinople, while Mr. Sharpe and other buyers were visiting the European rug market.

They felt that in view of this the property should be assessed at the same price as they were willing to take for it.

The court found on the whole that the assessors had done their work extremely well. Very few appellants found cause for a revision. Alderman Marjant stated: "The major number of appeals were dismissed. 'What the court noticed in particular was the shifting of values from one part of the city to another. Victoria West maintained its previous value while Fairfield property appreciated in value considerably. The central business area is also strongly advanced in value. Government Street is steadily coming back into its own after several years in which property values decreased. What is generally known as the semi-business district has rather declined than appreciated in value. Sections of the city, such as that bordering Chinatown, have also slightly depreciated according to the views of the assessors."

"James Bay is coming back again, but in a slightly different manner. While building in that district has been fairly maintained it is of a different character to the old type homes formerly erected there."

"Considerable building activity was noted by members of the court. Bungalows with stucco exterior were greatly in evidence. Apartment houses are far more prominent than they have been heretofore. This would indicate a change in the trend toward the new mode of living. It is perfectly evident that there is a complete change coming over the city in the regard."

"There are probably more automobiles than pianos in the city and the garage is everywhere in evidence."

way, meanwhile holding himself in position to counter effectively after he has evaded or blocked the issue. I remember my experience with Firpo when he first came to me. I watched him work out on the bag, and then I watched him work out on the sparring partners. He was so terrible a boxer that I took him out to my old gymnasium at Albermarle, and I put on the gloves with him myself, and showed him how easy it was for anybody who knew anything about boxing or ducking a punch to get away from him and counter dangerously."

Luis was amazed at the ease with which I evaded that terrific right-hand "loop-the-loop" of his. For a time I couldn't get him to swing it with all his might. He feared he might hurt me, and I was afraid of ducking a punch to get away from him and counter dangerously."

I tried every way I knew to develop Firpo's left hand to his side and then, getting a hard one on the chops, he set out a squeal of rage and snap—bang! His right broke loose from the strap to crash over on the sparring partner's head, knocking him ally for about five minutes."

With Desmoyes it was different. He didn't have much of a left when he first came to me, but he was eager to learn. When I tied his right hand up, he made him apart about and shadow box with a dumb-bell in his left hand, he did it so assiduously that he perfected one of the greatest left hands the game ever has seen."

In sparring, nowadays particularly, I notice a tendency to wear various contraptions, such as headguards, says Jimmy De Forest, in an article on training fighters, in the November issue of Fight Stories Magazine. I think it's better to use big gloves and dispense with the headguards. They often get in the way, and they have a tendency to make the wearer careless about blocking.

Ducking, blocking, parrying, stepping back and side-stepping punches are the things were trying to perfect our man in. If he gets in the habit of just sailing in and swapping punches, he might as well train with the big bag only, and not have any sparring partner."

The purpose of sparring in training is to perfect the boxer in the art of feinting for openings, recognizing openings when he has made them, and taking advantage of them. Also to teach him how to avoid punishment in a scientific way.

CHRIST CHURCH EFFORT REVIEWED

Scheme for Stone Cathedral Dates Back Thirty-Eight Years, to Message of Bishop Hills

It was on October 15, 1890, that a proposal "to erect a stone cathedral" in Victoria was placed before the synod of the diocese of Columbia at a meeting held in the old cathedral schoolroom.

Nearly two years later, at a synod meeting on June 14, 1892, it was reported "that after an open competition between both English and Colonial architects, the eminent British architect, Sir Arthur Blomfield, had selected a design as possessing the chief merit of all those sent in, and which recommends itself also to ourselves as being the plan of a Victoria competitor, and which will probably be accepted by the cathedral committee." The Victoria architect referred to is J. C. M. Keith, architect of the new Christ Church Cathedral, now rising above Burrill Avenue.

In August, 1892, the bishop of the diocese resigned, and requested that his resignation be accepted "in consideration of a ministry in the Church of England of over fifty-two years, and of his increasing sense of infirmity." A year later his successor, the Right Rev. W. W. Perrin, announced to the synod held in June, 1893, "that the present would, unfortunately, not be a good time to make a special appeal for funds for the new cathedral." Thus began the series of delays and postponements that continued until the ground was broken for the foundations of the new building on May 6, 1926.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN

It is of interest to note the comprehensive plan for the new cathedral establishment that was in the mind of the first bishop, Right Rev. George Hills. In his address to the synod on October 15, 1890, the bishop said:

"I am sure you will not consider this occasion unsuitable for allusion to the proposal to erect a stone cathedral, which we hope will be of such proportions and beauty as to be an ornament and pride of the city of Victoria. The increase of population, the demand for additional accommodation, and the impossibility of sufficient enlargement of the present building, make plain and urgent the necessity for a cathedral."

"A cathedral differs from an ordinary parish church in being the seat, as its name declares, of the bishop, or chief pastor of the diocese. Connected with it is usually a body of clergy who not only perform the usual duties of a parish, but exercise their gifts and powers in more varied ways and in wider fields than are required in the ordinary ministrations. Some will carefully maintain the daily round of prayer, visit the sick, give instruction to the young of the flock. Some will be selected for their learning and power of dealing in the pulpit with difficult subjects and questions of the day, and for training candidates for the ministry. Others will go forth as missionaries to assist in the parochial ministry by stirring up spiritual life, or will engage in evangelistic work in places not yet occupied, or during the sickness or absence of the regular minister."

"Here, too, should be found the best examples in the diocese of heart-lifting praise, beauty of worship and most frequent communion. Here will meet the synods of the church, and here will be the courts ecclesiastical. Within the precincts of a cathedral will be the cathedral library and depository of Christian literature, and where may be had instruction in church music, architecture and history, and other subjects of deep interest and value to clergy and laity of the diocese."

"Our present proposed undertaking, of course, comes far short of all this future development, but a due sense of the importance of the many objects connected with a cathedral will serve to stimulate zeal and encourage sacrifice in accomplishing as much as we are able to do upon a worthy and enlightened plan."

"Most earnestly I desire to commend this great work to every member of the Anglican Church in this diocese," concluded the bishop in his reference to the subject.

PRESENT PLAN, TOO

A few years ago, the present Bishop of Columbia announced a similar plan for making the new cathedral a centre of Christian influence and church work, whose benefits might "reach to the youngest and smallest mission in the most remote district, and inspire the most lonely worker with the sense of membership in a brotherhood that is mindful of the need of each one."

Such a plan can only be adopted a step at a time, and as gifts and endowments are provided for specific purposes.

A soft answer may turn away wrath, but that's a lot more than can be said of a soft tire.

THE JUBILEE HOSPITAL

A situation seems to have arisen in connection with the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital when a definite campaign to provide adequate quarters there has become necessary. To round out the task of hospital accommodation and to provide for the obvious needs of the coming decade or two it is altogether likely that a sum of $750,000 will be necessary. We believe it will be possible to persuade the Provincial Government to make a substantial grant and the balance could be raised by the city through a money-by-law. The conditions are congested in the extreme at present; within two years, or by the time new buildings could be ready, the present situation will become much aggravated. We are very certain that when the citizens learn how cramped the space is now they will take the viewpoint that the needs of a city which is progressing steadily should be met. Hospital accommodation is a first call on humane government. It should advance steadily with the progress of any community.

At the present time the Nurses Home at the hospital accommodates seventy-six persons. Ninety-six of the girls belonging to the staff have to occupy a part of the old hospital. The space they now take is urgently needed for patients, and if it were possible to house all the nurses and probationers in the one building space would be found for sixty-five more patients. The present Nurses' Home does not lend itself to an addition. The plans of the hospital directors include, among other improvements, a new Nurses' Home with a view to housing all the nurses in the one building, except the night staff, which could occupy a part of the old home. The Board of Directors has had under consideration a plan to reconstruct a portion of the old home to provide the necessary classrooms, demonstration rooms and lecture rooms, and thus avoid the cost of including these rooms in the new home. If it is possible, however, to secure $750,000, which will provide for the needs of many years to come, it will be necessary to make alterations in the present plans of the directors, which are only prepared with the design of laying out about $250,000, a sum which, if that is all that is expended in the immediate future, would mean that yet another appeal to the city and the Provincial Government would have to be made in a comparatively few years.

When the new wing of the hospital was constructed it was the intention to abandon the old maternity quarters. By reason, however, of the increase of patients these quarters have had to be turned into a male ward. The new wing is constructed in close proximity to this ward which is therefore not a very desirable part of the hospital. Both the old and new portions of the hospital are at present occupied by patients. More space is absolutely needed and the only temporary plan which suggests itself to the directors is to remove the nurses out of their quarters, and, as matters stand, there is no place to which they could be removed. As more and more patients go to the hospital more nurses become necessary, yet at present there is no place to put another nurse. Each single room in the old hospital is inhabited by three or four nurses, even the sun-room being used for the purpose of accommodation. The ninety-six girls in the old hospital occupy a space formerly given up to twenty-eight patients.

Some idea of the disadvantages under which the nurses labor in the old building is indicated by the fact that they have no wardrobes, and no room to put in dressing tables. In one ward there is but a three-foot passage between the beds with an eight-foot passage down the centre. This ward accommodates twenty-six nurses, and their belongings are all stored in a small room at the end of the ward. They have but four hand basins for their use and have to make shift with two bathrooms. This is the accommodation for twenty-six girls, all of whom have breakfast at 8.30 a.m. The remaining seventy, in the old building, are bunched in three and four in small rooms. So great is the congestion that in one of the rooms the occupants have to climb over the foot of the bedstead to get into bed. There is no privacy, practically no comforts, a condition which is particularly heart-rending when, as so often, nurses come off duty tired out in dealing with trying cases. In the old building the baseboards are going with dry rot. It is a dark and gloomy structure. The old wooden building, known as the Nurses' Home, is far from being what it should be for such accommodation, yet there are seventy-six persons housed in this structure. There, too, comforts are conspicuous by their absence, and so are what are known as modern conveniences. The building, indeed, is crowded to overflowing.

It is a sad commentary on modern efforts to improve the lot of suffering humanity to note the quarters provided for aged invalids. There is not a ray of sunshine available for them. There is no outlook. In fact the accommodation is utterly cheerless. This, and the nurses' accommodation, provide two instances. In addition, the tally of patients is growing all the time with the growth of the city, and it must be remembered that invalids are taken at the Jubilee from all the surrounding district as well. The situation is such that it is growing more imperative all the time to provide new buildings with every up-to-date accommodation such as a hospital ought to have. Again we repeat that this is a matter for immediate joint action by the Provincial Government and the city. The directors should not aim at merely temporarily relieving the situation. If that is all that is done it is only a question of a very few years before the accommodation will be again crowded. The first call on humanity is the needs of the sick. Now that Victorians have some inkling of what is necessary we are persuaded that they will be a unit in saying that it must be provided.

Not only is Victoria and its surrounding district progressing, at a more rapid rate than many people believe, but there are excellent prospects of that growth becoming accelerated. This indicates how the demand must necessarily increase for hospital accommodation. It will be the duty of the citizens to persuade the Provincial Government that a substantial grant is one of those vital demands which cannot be ignored. With the promise of it forthcoming then the citizens would be asked to vote on a money-by-law to provide their share of the expenditure. No money-by-law has been proposed for a long time past is more imperative than that to provide funds for hospital accommodation. The plans to give Victoria an adequate public hospital exist and the task should now be undertaken of wiping out the conditions under which the Jubilee is laboring in carrying out its work of humanity.

OLD-TIME LIFE

Sir Edgeworth David, the geologist, who was one of the party which sought and found the South Magnetic Pole, announces another discovery, this time in South Australia, which may shed new light on the earliest appearance of life on the habitable globe. The Cambrian rocks show many evidences of early life. The trilobite is the best known of the primitive animals which burrowed in the slime of the ancient seas, and the Olenellus trilobite is the oldest of them all. Below the Cambrian rocks in all parts of the world are shales and limestones, which, like those above them, were laid down by the ancient seas as sediments, but in which signs of life are excessively rare. The Olenellus has been found in some of them here and there, but this trilobite has no companions, though the group of rocky sediments deposited below the Cambrian rocks is so thick in some parts of the globe that as many millions of years must have been consumed in laying them down as all the rocks above them took together.

Sir Edgeworth announces that in these limestone clays and shales, which are below the Cambrian rocks in the Mount Loftus and Flinders Ranges, he has found, not here and there a solitary Olenellus, but innumerable fossil remains of other kinds of life. Most of them are well preserved skeletons of animals allied to crayfish and sandworms found on modern beaches. The meaning of the discovery is that in this portion of the world there was abundance of life of advanced forms at a period which has until now seemed barren of living things. The existence of plants and animals might be argued in that tremendously long period. The change from a glowing mass to a globe of which the first beginnings of life will be put back hundreds of millions of years. Some of the living animals which thrive in Australia today died out of the rest of the world millions of years ago. It is a strange coincidence that in sight almost of the city of Adelaide life carried on for many millions of years when other parts of the world had suffered changes which obliterated all trace of it.

PROTECTION AND THE FARMER

Canada produces today more than 500,000,000 bushels of wheat, more than half of which are exported to Europe. As long as the European market continues to offer a reasonable price for Canadian wheat, it is not hard to understand that our producers will be satisfied with their position. But as soon as the day comes when these prices fall, the Canadian West will experience an economic and political crisis from which the whole country will suffer. Now can we prevent the possibility of such a catastrophe? By tariff protection and other economic measures we would be able to close the Canadian market almost entirely against the invasion of foreign manufactured articles. The first advantage of this policy would be to increase the need of workmen in Canada, beginning with the retention of our own people in the country and following with the introduction of immigration of a working-class population. If even the country were in a position to consume four-fifths of its Canadian grain, there would no longer be any crisis for the farmer to apprehend.—Quebec Evening News.

MOONBEAMS

The Fairies dance the living night
 Across the moonlit hill;
 The moonbeams dance along the lake;
 The western wind is still.
 The waters make a little sound
 More sweet than music far—
 Oh, let me fly across the world
 To where the Fairies are!

—Norreys Jonathan O'Connor, in "Songs of the Celtic Past."

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Ten years ago Imperialistic Germany dreamt of being first in the destructive art of war. Today Democratic Germany aims at being first in the peaceful pursuits of industry. The dream "never came true." The aim may be attained. A great German ship is making the first commercial trip across the Atlantic Ocean. The trip will be extremely hazardous, for at this season of the year the waters of the ocean are not as peaceful as a millpond and the atmosphere above the waters is not as placid as a sleeping babe. Then a Zeppelin airship is a big and a shining mark. Should it be gripped by an equinoctial gale, all the oil engine power it possesses will be necessary to keep it upon its course and drive it into a haven of safety. The experiment of the Graf Zeppelin may be successful, however, and Germany may be in a position to claim the honors and emoluments as a leader of practical aviation among the nations. That is a more enviable ambition than world domination by force of arms.

But the ambition of Germany is not going to be attained without opposition. The British are also building a dirigible airship, a much bigger and more imposing craft than the Graf Zeppelin. That ship is nearing completion. It will be on the air sometime during the coming year. On its first trip it will come to Canada, where special preparations are being made to meet it. Such preparations are necessary because a Zeppelin cannot land anywhere on land and water like an amphibious aeroplane. There is some doubt in the minds of authorities respecting the practical qualities of dirigible airships as compared with aeroplanes. The big ships look clumsy compared with their small rivals. The little fellows are easily handled; at least they appear to be easily handled, for in competent hands they can perform extraordinary acrobatic stunts. Zeppelins are not made for "doing tricks." The United States has one, and it does not appear to have been used for any other than demonstration purposes, proving that it can be navigated with safety from coast to coast.

The experimental trip of the Graf Zeppelin will determine the feasibility of navigation with the big type of ship. The Graf is carrying twenty passengers and a large amount of mail matter. If it arrives at its destination in the United States at the appointed time, the mail carried will not be delivered many hours ahead of the time it would have been delivered if carried by a fast Atlantic steamship, but owing to the season of the year and the uncertainties of the weather the ship's course has been laid over a circuitous route. Germany is a central continental power and cannot establish stations on the coast. In that respect she is at a disadvantage compared with Great Britain. Great Britain has a long line of seacoast on both continents, and can establish stations at the nearest and most convenient points between the continents. So that if there is going to be rivalry, or possibly we should say competition, in the air, if Germany has the advantage of the start, Britain will have the advantage of position.

But if the German venture into the air is an experiment, and a very doubtful experiment, Germany's ambition in another realm is not an experiment. Students of modern history will remember that the Teutonic Power before it ventured upon the daring and ambitious enterprise of conquering the world by force of arms had succeeded in creating a great mercantile marine, which it lost when it lost the war. German ships were then among the swiftest upon the seas. Without saying very much about it, Germany has been diligently creating another merchant marine. As yet there is no extremely fast German ship afloat, but two have been launched which are said to be capable of flaunting their sterns in front of any ship competing for the trade between Europe and America. They are very large ships as well as very swift and their appointments are unequalled.

In a few years Germany will stand where she did, and while no nation upon the earth can check her progress, for she is a powerful nation of more than sixty millions of people, there is still one nation that can compete with her and enter into friendly rivalry with her. Consequently the game thrown down by Germany has been taken up by the mariners of England, whose dominion has long been upon the seas. It is true that in the case of steamships as in the case of airships, Germany will have the advantage of position, for the two German ships probably will have established records before the big ships ordered by British transportation companies are launched.

An interesting point of this friendly rivalry is that it establishes the fact, apparently, that the day of the big and swift steamship is not done, as so many people claiming to speak with authority have asserted. And we may have big ships in the air as well as big ships in the water, all catering to the requirements of travellers who are in a desperate hurry to do business and to see the world.

Do You Remember?

Conducted by Herbert Kent

When a woman came from the American side and established herself on Port Street as a "Seers," the Seventh Daughter of a Seventh Daughter, and began raking in the shekels of the credulous, and how, following the appearance of a playful horsewhipping the editor (the late D. W. Higgins?) The "manager" was put out of the office, being informed at the same time that his fortune and that of a "Seers" would be told that day. Within an hour of this interview a police officer sent by Chief O'Connor, notified them that if they were in town next day they would be arrested as common vagrants, and they, believing the old prophecy, left town by the light boat for Seattle. This occurred in the year 1883.

A thrilling rescue from drowning of three out of four people, two men and two boys, which occurred off Beacon Hill, in the vicinity of the old wharf, on Sunday, November 9, 1897. The parties were out duck shooting, when a heavy storm came on and overturned the boat. They clung to the keel and one boy was saved through the efforts of his brother, who repeatedly pulled him from the cold waters to the bottom of the boat. This accident was witnessed from the shore by many who had walked out to the Dallas Road to watch the storm, and none thought a rescue was possible, but two lads of sixteen years of age secured a small pleasure boat from a beach near the present breakwater, and in the teeth of the gale pulled out to the overturned boat and rescued three men having slipped into the water and gone down. This brave deed was later brought to the attention of the Royal Humane Society by some local people, and through the kind offices of the Hon. W. S. Fielding, who was in Victoria when the rescue took place, was presented to these two boys at a special ceremony during a band concert in the old Drill Hall.

The first brick residence erected in Victoria, which stood on the northwest corner of Government and Hastings Streets. This was built by Thomas Harris, who later was elected first Mayor of Victoria in 1862, and to celebrate this event he gave a continuous banquet lasting three days.

On September 17, 1862, when the steamer Tyndmouth, the first bringing passengers direct from Great Britain, arrived at Victoria with 400 on board, sixty of whom were young unmarried women. The steamer came round Cape Horn, making the trip in ninety-nine days, of which fourteen were spent in the South Sea Islands and two in San Francisco.

It would be interesting to know how many of these passengers are still living in the city.

Wife—I wish you'd give up smoking, dearest.

Husband—But all great men have smoked.

Wife—Well, just promise me that you won't smoke till you're great. I'll be quite satisfied.

Jots From Literature

SIDNEY Lanier, great poet of the South, learned to play the guitar, flute, piano and violin without the aid of a teacher. His love for music led him to poetry and he has given literature some of its most musical verses. After fighting in the Civil War his lungs were impaired and death came to him in 1881 after many years of hardships and struggles. "Song of the Chattahoochee," "Tampa Robin" and "Song of the Marshes" are his best-known works.

NEW RECORD SET FOR TAX COLLECTIONS

The comptroller was also very pleased with the collection of arrears of taxes. "Collection of one-year-old arrears will probably amount to $84,750," he said. "We had estimated for $85,000. Two-year-old arrears, came in remarkably well. They will aggregate $66,225 as against an estimate of $64,000. This will show a gain of $2,225."

"Collection of consolidated arrears is a little under last year's figure, possibly about $7,500 less. This, however, is to be expected, as the ten-year consolidated arrears have nearly all run out."

LARGER TAX ACCOUNT

"Increased sales by the land department are reflected in a larger credit in the land buyers' tax account. This account represents general taxes for the current year from the date of purchase up to the end of the year on lands purchased from the city during the year. Last year's collections under this head amounted to $1,024. This year's collections to date are $2,467, an increase of 140 per cent."

"On the whole collections of arrears are a little less than the estimate, but this will be offset by the increased current collections. Revenues other than taxes also show a satisfactory increase over the estimates. The increased building activity is reflected in higher collections from building, plumbing and wiring permits."

GRANTS INCREASE

In addition to these, other increases can confidently be looked for in revenues from liquor profits, pari-mutuel betting, the Goldstream Waterworks, motor licences, etc. The grant from motor licences amounted to $46,776, as against an estimate of $46,000. Mr. MacDonald said: "For the first half of this year $39,341 has been received from liquor profits, as against $37,990 for the same period last year and a total of $73,000, which is the original estimate for the whole of this year. The grant from pari-mutuels should be higher, as betting showed a marked increase at the race tracks this summer."

Dealing with expenditures Mr. MacDonald said:

EXPENSES DOWN

"Generally speaking, the departments are keeping within their appropriations and there may be a saving at the end of the year of a few thousand dollars under this head. On the whole, present indications are that we will finish this year on the right side of the ledger. "Collections on account of salaries and rentals of city land are $93,415, compared with $87,867 last year. These collections are applied the following year toward a reduction of taxes. "So far this year the tax sale has realized about $12,000, as compared with $9,765 last year, while the number of parcels to go to the sale was smaller this year than in 1927. "Last year we finished up with unpaid accounts to the extent of $66,000, so that we are better off this year to at least that extent. These unpaid accounts were largely the cause of the increase in the mill rate. Next year the debt charges will show a reduction of some $30,000, so that the outlook for 1929 is a little more rosy," Mr. MacDonald concluded.

Women Over 25 to Vote First Time in Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 13.—Women over twenty-five years of age will exercise the franchise for the first time in Newfoundland in the general elections taking place on October 29. The male and female voters are about equal in number. Another feature of the election is that it will be held under the new distribution act, whereby the district representatives will number forty instead of thirty-five, as formerly.

DR. SEDGEWICK TO SPEAK HERE

A lecture by Dr. G. C. Sedgewick is always an event of interest to a large number of people in Victoria, and the announcement that he will speak on "Dante Gabriel Rossetti" at Victoria College at 8:15 next Thursday evening, will bring out a large audience. Membership cards of the University Extension Association, under whose auspices the lecture is being given, may be secured at the Public Library at any time or at the college on the evening of the lecture.

MAKING MATTERS WORSE

"Why, Freddie," exclaimed the mother of a precocious five-year-old, "aren't you ashamed to call auntie stupid? Go to her at once and tell her you're sorry."

"Auntie," said the little fellow a few moments later, "I'm awful sorry you're so stupid."

DURANT MOTORS LIMITED GROWS

GAIN IN CARS DURING SUMMER HAS BEEN EXCEPTIONAL THIS YEAR

Sales Manager Is Visitor Here in Course of Inspection of Distributing Agencies

The business of Durant Motors of Canada, Limited, is expanding in British Columbia, as in other parts of Canada, the improved business conditions creating a greater demand for automobiles, according to Mr. Phil J. Duggan, sales manager of the company, who arrived here yesterday afternoon with a party of officials to place the company on tour for the purpose of conferring with Durant representatives, and will visit all the chief centres.

Like other automobile companies, the selling season of 1927-28 has exceeded former years. Mr. Duggan said to The Colonist, The plant, which is located at Lesbridge, on the outskirts of Toronto, has been taxed to supply the demand for cars.

"If the present trend persists," said Mr. Duggan, "the company will have a new high record for business in 1928, considerably above its previous record of last year. There is every indication that this condition will continue. In June we completed the most successful six months' period in our history, and in July production and sales were double the same month a year ago, while in August we showed an increase of more than 200 per cent over the same month in 1927."

"Our best advertising," was the verbal recommendation of owners to their friends, and it was the cars themselves that created the highly satisfactory demand by winning public approval and instant popularity."

BUSINESS EXPANDING

"This was not only true of Durant passenger cars, but of Durant and Rugby trucks as well, large orders having been received from the Prairie Provinces for grain tanks particularly. In other years, Durant in common with other automobile plants, had closed from the middle of July to the middle of August, but this year, however, the greater part of the staff had been kept busy to fill the unusual volume of orders that demanded immediate attention."

As an evidence of the growth of the company, Mr. Duggan stated that a new building is now under construction to house the administration offices, and that the entire space made available by this additional building would be required for production purposes. The outlook, therefore, was very bright and it was safe to estimate that at least last year's total of sales and profits would be exceeded. He referred to the fact that the company was now on a dividend basis and that its nation-wide dealer organization insured maximum service in all parts of the Dominion.

COPPER-ZINC ORE IS STRUCK

Good Exposure at Mount Sicker on Tunnel Work by Pacific Tidewater Mines

COMPANY HAS BRIGHT PROSPECTS

The Pacific Tidewater Mines, Limited, has reached its objective in the driving of the tunnel at Mount Sicker. At a distance of 231 feet there has been exposed a body of high grade copper-zinc ore.

The operations that the company has been carrying on at the camp consisted in the driving of a tunnel parallel with the north ore body in the Lenora, and which has been projected as the main adit for both the Tyee and Lenora mines. Breaking into the Tregear slope on the Tyee-Lenora boundary, there has been exposed this body of high grade copper-zinc ore. The body is about seven feet in width and carries a valuable content of gold and silver.

After the workings on the Tregear slope have been restored it is planned to extend the adit level almost one hundred feet in the Tyee claim, and thus drain the Tyee workings by using a diamond drill.

PROFITABLE PROPERTY

The successful operations of the company at Mount Sicker are very gratifying from the standpoint of mineral development on Vancouver Island. From 1900 until 1907 when Mount Sicker was at the height of its production, there was taken from the properties $5,000,000. In addition to this production, there were reserves of ore in the north bodies which were left practically untouched. This was on account of the fact that these ore bodies were of a complex character which, which according to the methods of treatment at that time, were regarded as impracticable to deal with, under the existing methods.

Modern methods have altered all this, and it is now possible to separate the copper and zinc with profit. The zinc existing in the content of being regarded as a detriment, is now held to be an asset.

OTHER ENTERPRISES

The Pacific Terminal Mines, which has in hand the operations at Mount Sicker, it is also announced, has in hand development of the Indian Chief mine at Sidney Inlet, and Blue Grouse mine at Litchman Lake.

Affiliated with the Ladysmith Tidewater Smelters, Limited, and the British Metals Corporation, of London, the Pacific Terminal Mines has important connections in a mining and treating way. The work at Mount Sicker is under the charge of Mr. R. B. Bower, who is operating under the direction of Mr. R. G. Mellin, M.E., the company's engineer.

On Thursday evening the W.A. of Columbia Parish, Strawberry, served its annual harvest supper. Jersey Frocks for Sports or Morning Wear

OWN Autumn mornings before the steam is on in the apartment house, or when it makes a too, too feeble attempt at heating the chilly atmosphere, quite the nicest thing to don for breakfast time is a snug little jersey dress. Cottons and linens in their gay prints and plaids are all very attractive but they are not an assurance against chattering teeth.

A neat one or two-piece dress combining warmth and style for home wear is hardly distinguishable from smart sports models. In fact a dress of this type follows tailored lines and reflects the color and modernism of the present day. Solid tones brightened by a contrasting color are in equal favor with prints in Jerseys and other wools. There are diverse ways of imparting color to the plain little dress and this usually is through the medium of the decorative motif. A good-looking two-piece dress shows in which the modern theme is carried out has diagonal incrustations on blouse and sleeves of self material in two other shades. An echo of this color contrast is seen at the V-neckline. Time was when the French knot was strewn over everything from lingerie to evening dress. It has been ignored in decoration for so long that its reappearance strikes a decidedly new note. Rows of hand-embroidered French knots are used to good effect on a simple one-piece jersey dress pleated from hip to hem. A pert bow and streamers at the shoulder offset the straight lines of this model. Tri-colored embroidered floral motifs scattered over the jumper of the third frock illustrated carry out a diamond pattern and are carefully hand-done. A pleated skirt and tailored pockets add to the comfort and convenience of the dress, which may be worn for street or sports with equal satisfaction.

Surprise Shower

A miscellaneous surprise shower was recently held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Rowell, under the auspices of the B.Y.P.U. of Central Baptist Church, in honor of Miss Viola Hinesley, whose marriage will take place shortly. Misses Eva Hilborn, Grace Phipps and Mrs. Rowell formed the committee in charge, and Miss Eva Hilborn was responsible for the decorative scheme of orange and black. As the bride-elect entered the reception room and was escorted to her seat of honor, the bridal chorus by Lohengrin was played by Miss Sylvia Boyden. Mr. and Mrs. Rowell delighted the guests with a duet. As the bride march was again played, little Miss Grace Rowell and Hedy Rowell, dressed as bride and groom, entered the room preceded by Miss Frances Rowell. The many other useful and beautiful gifts, which were concealed in a daintily decorated clothes basket, were next presented to the guest of honor, to which she suitably responded. Refreshments were then served, and about thirty-five guests were present.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

BID FAREWELL TO RETIRING MAYOR

Ladysmith Aldermen Make Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Jones on Eve of Departure

LADYSMITH, Oct. 13.—On Thursday evening an enjoyable social time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Callin, when the retiring mayor and his wife, Mrs. Jones, were the guests of honor, the occasion being a gathering of the aldermen and civic employees, to bid them farewell. During the evening, Alderman Bryant, on behalf of the council, and the employees, presented the mayor with a handsome traveling bag with monogram embossed in gold. Mrs. Jones was also the recipient of a lady's traveling bag, which was presented to her by Alderman Davidson. The aldermen all expressed their regret that Mr. and Mrs. Jones were leaving the city to reside in California, and wished them every success in their new sphere of work. Mayor Jones thanked all present for the beautiful gifts they had received, and for the many expressions of kind thoughts and good wishes which had been extended to them for their future welfare.

Mayor of Boissevain Is Visitor to City

Mayor F. J. Crowhurst, of Boissevain, Man., accompanied by Mrs. Crowhurst, are visitors in the city, the guests of Rev. O. L. and Mrs. Jull, at St. Mark's Vicarage, Cloverdale.

In the following interview with a Colonist correspondent, Mayor Crowhurst says he intends at no late date to bring his family here and make Victoria his home.

"After spending a vacation in the United States and England last year, where the weather was anything but agreeable, I was tremendously impressed with the general climate of beautiful Victoria, particularly after leaving my home in Manitoba, where before I left, they had experienced severe frosts, all vegetation and flowers being completely destroyed."

"I had been given to understand that Victoria was a very quiet city. To a certain extent this may be true, but when I was here, I was very favorably impressed with its size."

"The various buildings greatly appealed to me, particularly the Parliament Buildings, situated as they are overlooking the harbor, in their beautiful settings of flowers, shrubs and velvet lawns."

"What one notices more particularly is the absence of dust, the cleanliness of the streets being a source of real pleasure when compared with such cities as Chicago and other prairie centres, where the wind and dust at times make one unbearable."

"During my short stay I have enjoyed several of the lovely drives within the vicinity, and never have I seen more beautiful natural scenery. My visit to Butchart's Gardens will leave an impression that will never be forgotten, although the summer flowers were over. The autumn tints beggar description, and the chrysanthemums, asters, etc., etc., made a superb show."

"I have traveled considerably, and have every intention of settling in Victoria, as, in looking over a number of homes, I am satisfied that nowhere could one find greater conveniences and comforts combined with natural beauty than in Victoria."

Face Peeler Is Best Complexion Beautifier

One reason mercurized soap is so strongly recommended is that it really takes the place of several different cosmetics, having the effect of exfoliating the skin, removing the old, faded or discolored outer layer, and gradually appearing clearer, after, healthy-looking and more youthful. There's nothing better to remove liver spots, freckles, pimples or blemishes. Mercurized soap brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and age signs, use as face lotion 1 ounce powdered ascorbic acid and 1 half-pint witch hazel. At all drug stores. (Advt.)

LADYSMITH UNIT ARRANGING DANCE

Permission has been asked from the city council to hold a poppy day tag sale, on Saturday, November 10. The Boy Scouts will assist in the sale of the poppies, the proceeds from which will be devoted to relief work amongst ex-service men and their dependents. Preparations are also being made for a treat for the children during the Christmas season. Sister Claus, for the past few years has been most generous to the children of Ladysmith and district.

BABY CLINIC IS SUCCESSFUL

Esquimalt Rural Nursing Service Inaugurates Winter Course at Langford

LANGFORD, Oct. 13.—The first of the pre-school clinics of the Esquimalt rural nursing service, held yesterday in the Langford Women's Institute hall, was a most successful event. About twenty babies were weighed and measured by Miss Helen Newbury, while their mothers received expert advice on minor ailments, or preventive measures for warding off sickness. The children were brought from Colwood, Luxton, Happy Valley, and Langford, showing that the innovation was a popular one, and these clinics the preceding nurse expects will be held monthly.

Those present enjoyed a social afternoon as well as a profitable one. Mrs. D. Riddle played many old favorites on the piano and Mrs. J. L. Brown sang "Danny Boy" and "Mother Macbride," all joining in the chorus.

A number of the members of the local Women's Institute were present, and tea was served by Mrs. E. H. Phipps, Mrs. A. Cowie, Mrs. J. L. Brown and Mrs. J. Wilkison, to the mothers who were waiting for their respective turns for the examination of the little ones.

Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Percival presided at the tea table for the first hour and Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. Edge for the second. Those assisting in serving were Misses Bessie Paikney, Ella Miller, Winnie and Evelyn Whitehead, Isabel Merton and Eva Hodgins. Everything Seemed a Burden

"I feel I must write and tell you of the great benefit I have derived from Kruschen Salts. For three years I suffered from constipation, depression and nerves which made everything seem a burden.

"After attending doctors on and off for this period, I commenced to take Kruschen and from then I gradually got back to my usual state of health. I have now resumed my duties and work is once more a pleasure.

"I am continuing with Kruschen Salts and after being back at business nearly six weeks am maintaining the 'Kruschen feeling' and recommending the public to take the 'little daily dose,' and keep themselves fit these bustling days.

"I shall always be pleased to answer any inquiries in praise of Kruschen Salts."

FIRST BABY BORN IN NEW HOSPITAL

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Chilton Makes History for Herself and Nanaimo Institution

Arriving fifty-seven hours after the opening of the institution to patients, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Chilton, of Nanaimo, has made history for herself as well as the new hospital of the Coal City by being the first baby born within its walls. She has established a splendid precedent for the hospital by weighing eight pounds at birth. Both attendant physicians and nurses, as well as the parents, are proud of the record initiated.

By being the first baby to arrive at the hospital she has brought into use for the first time the dainty nursery equipment and has been presented with a beautiful layette, given by the I.O.D.E. of Victoria, and becomes owner of a silver cup, presented by the Nanaimo Institution Chapter, I.O.D.E.

The mother is the first patient in the maternity ward, which is one of the departments of which the hospital management is particularly proud.

"I don't know," she said briskly. "But I'm extremely silly to let it make me feel cross. They asked me to go and I said I didn't want to go—I'd much rather be with my own crowd. They'll probably make a fuss about Marianne Scott for a few weeks, and then forget her, or as least she'll settle down like the rest of us. Perhaps she'll marry Fox."

"Has she money?" Barry asked, with simplicity.

"Well, some, I imagine," she said. "She'll go after Link," the boy predicted. And all Barbara's unworthy fears were set suddenly fluttering again. Would she really? Would Marianne Scott become mistress of the big house under the big trees? Well, what of it, if she did? Barbara surely didn't want Link Mackenzie.

"I'm never with you, Barbara, but I want to kiss you," he had said. A pulse hammered in her throat, today, remembering clumsy, quiet Link saying that, although she had felt quite composed and cool at the time. And for the first time in her twenty-two years, Barbara Atherton felt a little shaken—a little confused—over the thought of a man.

WANT NELSON TO BE HEAD OFFICE

Interior Chamber of Mines Petitions for Change to Expedite Communication With Victoria

Removal of the headquarters of the eastern mineral survey district from Revelstoke to Nelson, centre of the district, with both engineers in direct touch with Nelson, with Victoria, is the solution proposed by the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia, of the vexing question of delays in getting action on reports and matters affecting the southern portion of the district.

With one central office to deal with instead of the Nelson office having to report to Revelstoke, and the latter to Victoria, and then the route reversed for the reply, the vexation over roundabout communication would be gone. Further, every part of the district can be quickly reached from Nelson, whereas connections with Revelstoke are such that Mr. A. G. Langley, resident engineer, loses time on every trip. From the Slokan to Revelstoke, for instance, involves a full day's wait at Nakusp, while Revelstoke also is nearly a full day from Nelson.

Action on this matter has just been taken, after mature deliberation following the visit of Mr. J. D. Galloway, provincial mineralogist, who advised the chamber to arrive at a definite recommendation before approaching the Minister of Mines. The resolution to be sent to Hon. W. A. McKenzie reads: "That this Chamber of Mines recommend to the Hon. Minister of Mines that the head office of district engineers be moved from Revelstoke to Nelson, and that Mr. A. G. Langley be the chief mining engineer for the district, with Mr. B. T. O'Grady as resident mining engineer."

"We further request the Hon. Minister of Mines to authorize both engineers to make reports to the department at Victoria and receive instructions direct from the department."

"We would further draw to the attention of the Hon. Minister of Mines that the suggestion has been made to divide this district into two parts, and that, after giving this matter very careful consideration, this Chamber of Mines does not think it is either feasible or advisable to do so."

By unanimous vote invitations are to be sent to Mr. Langley and Mr. O'Grady to meet the executive of the chamber to discuss this question fully.

The Minister of Mines, when interviewed relative to the move as proposed by the Interior mining men, said that he had not had any petition yet presented to him dealing with the matter. There had been several communications touching upon the subject, which he had received, and he supposed in due course the petition would be forthcoming.

Without anticipating in any manner action respecting the matter, Mr. McKenzie said that the district engineers held their positions under provisions of the act, and if any change in the situation were to be carried out, it could only be after the act was amended if approved.

Plays in Preparation

In connection with the C.P.R. Christmas festivities this year at the Empress Hotel and Crystal Garden, there are to be two plays, "The Chester Mysteries," and "Wardie's Party," by Charles Dickens.

The preparation of these has been placed in the hands of Major Bullock-Webster. A number of performers will be required, as the festivities require a large cast. Those wishing to take part will be given opportunity as far as possible if they will apply at the B.C. Dramatic School. There is no expense of any kind to the performers.

Stylish Models and Fabrics for Women

New Alliance of Fur and Fabric

blasts in a coat of supple material. Quite the most alluring example of this style trend in winter coats is the model from Vionnet which will effect a little influence. It is believed, on American adaptations soon to find their way into the fashion-wise shops.

Sectionalized layers of ermine form not only a full puffed collar but a veritable yoke on a coat of blue suede. From the widened open wrists ermine tapers to a point at modified bolero above a narrow self belt trimly buckled.

A single glance at the models sketched impresses one with the great variety permissible in this idea. One notable inclination is to blouse the coat, especially in the back and sometimes even all around. The model pictured from Paquin, back view only, typifies that belted line with a blouse above, the back further accented by seaming at the yoke and in the skirt portion. Blue fox trims the collar and the bottom in harmony with the green velvet de laine of which the model is made.

Straight and flared lines are equally endorsed. A decided flare below the waistline is taken from the collection of Vionnet, the coat of egg-shell colored tweed. The flare is duly characterized by a slim fitted effect from the shoulders. Diagonal appliques of beaver show an almost even balance between cloth and fur.

UNTIL the present time there has been no actual compromise between the cloth coat with fur and the all-fur wrap. The weather or the budget has restricted us to one or the other and each has a definite demand owing to the caprices of the temperature.

In the latest alliance of fur and fabric an additional warmth has been given to the cloth coat, placing it in a position to vie with the entire-fur garment.

A huge collar and partial sleeves of peltry and frequently a skirt border of fur enable mildly to withstand the rigors of snow and icy the armhole, where it meets the angles provided by the yoke. Repeating the modish diagonal line, the coat proper blouses at the hips in a

How Flowers Are Worn

ONE or two flowers of soft velvet or of leather adorn the buttonholes of the smartest tailored jackets. They match the material or seek contrast by matching the other part of the costume. Medium in size, they imitate the thistle or the dahlia.

A buttonhole bouquet or a wreath is attractive as a group of small crocheted flowers in silk twist. A simulation of the china aster in small crepe flowers used singly or as a duo, one light and the other dark, flashes from coat revers.

Clusters of five roses sometimes

Many Coats Fur-Lined

IT has been something of a rarity when we have seen the fur-lined coat in comparison with the cloth coat lined with silk. Many women are adopting the fabric garment lined with fur to combine comfort with the smartness of the new woollens. Fur linings are becoming increasingly fashionable in sportswear and coats of formal nature. Kid, coney and leopard are favorite furs for lining the sports model.

Felt of Prime Importance in Headwear

OCCASIONAL hints that we are gradually striving toward a standardization in women's fashions seem but vague suggestions which it is highly improbable will ever reach a triumphant realization. Thus far the only apparent standardization is our universal acceptance of felt as the most appealing and satisfactory medium in the millinery world and this has ruled throughout many seasons.

Felt persistently continues to be the important fabric with solid achieving only a second place in popularity. The chic woman can be led to novelties, velvets and other materials for a time but her real allegiance remains with felt.

Fashions glorifying the feminine figure also make the most of the countenance in the realm of chap-eaus. Brows and eyes that were over shadowed by drooping brows now see the light of day and put their best glance foremost. It is only the woman complacently oblivious to changes in dress who does not peer archly out from beneath a jaunty hat. For lack of facial beauty is modified by an elusive charm in this phase of apparel.

Perhaps we are but following the lead of the ever interesting little flapper wearing her hat perched on the back of her head. At least it is successful many of the new models exact this adjustment which reveals as much of the forehead as is compatible with a smart effect.

A typical sleek little turban entirely of felt is illustrated above from Rose Dewast, that undisputed genius for creating the youthful in headgear. Patou is credited with the hat of black soiled shown abruptly off the eyes, the brim covering the cheeks and a single bow of red velvet at the right side.

An Agnes version of the poke is this in beige felt with an irregular strip of velvet in a deeper shade employed for an increased band, intricate cutting and seaming alone contribute to the jauntyness of the Dutch bonnet without trimming shown in two views.

Black and brown are the most accepted shades and reach the peak of approval in millinery, white blues and reds included in the Autumn colorings.

Today's Paris Style News

By ALICE MAXWELL APPO
THE Ritz luncheon hour shows a marked use of astrakhan in brown, grey and black. Also many fox scarfs and many grey costumes, including grey hat and shoes.

Grey and beige tweeds are pronounced, some having capes. Navy tweeds and plain navy are both very popular.

Small two-tone turbans covered with velvet leaves are seen. Two-tone scarfs also appear.

The cloth handbag renews its prestige by appearing in the same smooth plain fabric as the afternoon coat. More or less of a sports accessory heretofore, its new afternoon character points to extension of its vogue.

The panier or outstanding peplum creates a new silhouette. Although a radical change, it has important supporters. Lanvin makes flowered taffeta stand out at the hips in an aggressive manner. Louise-Boulanger does practically the same thing, also carries out the idea in beaver for a black broadcloth coat. Talbot employs the flared peplum in fur for the jacket finish of several of her smart two-piece suits.

Extremes in Evening Mode

EVENING dress is heralded as being either intricately plain or extremely scintillating in its amount and kind of decoration. Herein lies a woman's enviable chance to express her mood, or better, as the haute couture suggests, the individual or the personality.

So, the simple to the conservative-minded and the ornate to those who enjoy bedazzling the natives with lavish fabrics such as chiffon dripping with rhinestones or lace over metal lace with the pattern picked out in glittering jet or crystal beads. Lanvin spares no effort toward making her models flash and glimmer with strings of crystal nail-heads and mirrored centres. Chanel beads lace extravagantly. Other couturieres prefer rich fabrics unadorned.

Satins remain simple, together with many of the dignified designs in velvet. Betwixt and between the two extremes come the multitudinous print in velvet, taffeta and more; then the billowing chiffons and tulle.

Frocks of enduring lines are two models illustrated. One with the round decolletage is Patou's conception of a classic in transparent velvet of a pale green. The suppleness of this lustrous fabric lends itself well to shirring, which designates the neckline, in this case beneath interesting cross-over bands from the bodice joining the skirt. Similar bands cross in black with the lengthened drapery.

Increasingly important is chenille dotted net for the fluffier type of evening dress, usually in black, but also in white and nude. This model from Berthe shows a double flounce skirt in front, but the upper flounce slopes short at the sides. Twisted black velvet ribbon defines the rather wandering waist line. This is but one evidence of the many present uses of ribbon for trimming the season's frocks.

Dressy Hats of Cap Shape

the millinery world. For instance a brown velvet with a modernistic pattern, pressed into it is blocked into a toque shape, the hairline broken only at the right side by quills of self fabric.

Rhinestones are resorted to by several milliners to trim their formal hats. One is sketched showing this treatment of an attractive velvet skull cap, but in the eyebrow line, bands of brilliants outlining the tabs over the ears.

The evening cap of shimmering material is becoming the accepted thing. Here is a fetching model, right figure, entirely of silver bugle beads in an intricate swirling pattern, reminiscent of an Egyptian headdress.

A man sent a small boy to deliver a note to a young lady who lived a few streets away. He gave the boy two pence so that he would hurry.

After a short time the messenger came back, and, returning the money, said: "Miss Jones says she will be glad to see you tonight, but she didn't want the twopenny!"

Many a single man is doubtful whether he can get on without a wife, then he marries and becomes cocksure he can't get on with her.

The Trend in Autumn Coat Lines

A SINCERE student of the mode that gropes toward a perfect interpretation of the modern period—no less a one than Lucien Lelong—embodies his conclusions in a concise descriptive phrase—unity, balance, poise.

"We are making a cult of naturalness," he has stated. "And as a consequence the style for this new season represents a revolt against anything that even suggests the artificial. The final result is a quest for these qualities in dress which have always been inherent in nature. An artistic unity based on masking details. The modern silhouette is an endeavor toward the liberation of personality through designs of elaborate skill that conceal the increased degree of effort."

Attention is focused on coats of winter origin exemplifying this endeavor of couturiers toward a revelation in fashions of the present day and which outline the figure with an agreeable congruity. There is a strong tendency to raise the waistline to its rightful position, realized by seaming, a belt, or by pockets placed higher. Thus Patou gives emphasis to the back of a coat illustrated. Fabric working in slate blue broadcloth, one of the most pulsing new color tones, supplies this accent to the contours of the womanly figure. A pointed collar of blue fox, matching cuffs outlined by the tails of the animal. Cape themes are emblematic of the unrestricted freedom of the drape and swing from the shoulder either in fur or fabric. The model from Vionnet is one that will appear this season, but is an actual forecast of the Spring.

Asserting itself as an alien from the habitual type of cape, it adorns the back of the garment only. On with the sleeves, it divides at the centre back, one end hanging lower. Beaver is used for cuffs and collar, the latter combining shawl and scarf and is in pleasant contrast to the fabric of novelty angora tweed mixture, soft and lovely beyond description.

"Anything of unusual interest in this town?" asked the tourist who was waiting for the garage man to get through with his car.

"Well," said the native, "we've got a drugstore where you can't buy nothing but drugs."

and a rounded border of the fur, clinging to the slender lines of the native silhouette.

Puffiness affected at one side only lends grace to the flares and circular lines of the godet. This is repeated in the cuffs of a coat shown in navy blue zibeline, which seeks undue interest because of its collar consisting of an entire blue fox, the head placed at the neckline and the feet reaching the waist. A mere hint of fur is echoed in the cuffs

Velvet Embraced by Every Phase of Mode

DAYTIME, afternoon or night! Sports wear, semi-formal or formal! With one accord all phases of the mode have adopted velvet as the most brilliant medium for expressing a season replete with a revived magnificence.

Adapted in its many variations of weave in silk, cotton or synthetic threads, velvet disposes to reign supreme. There is a silk velvet of course, the ultimate grande dame of the velvet realm. And shimmering rayon weaves are most acceptable for both day and evening use. A very new factor of this genre is one with a deep pile and a rather dull finish, somewhat resembling silk duvetyn only with qualities of greater suppleness.

There are velvets of the stiffer texture such as those sponsored by a number of evening gowns and wraps. And velveteens of momentous consequence in Fall and Winter sports garments. Velveteen is alike a valuable asset to the apparel of adult or juvenile, and corduroy shows signs of reanimation.

Coats for formal daytime and evening wear are advanced as luxurious interpretations of the new mode. A indication of the style trend is to be noted in the daytime coat worn by milady on the left. This of bright blue velvet is elaborately colored and cuffed with lynx.

Velveteen for sports finds grace ful lines with which to express itself. At the extreme right is typically smart three-piece costume of the favored dark red, the jumps of which is rose-knit fabric.

A type representative of evening gowns developed in velvets of the stiffer texture which achieves very clearly defined silhouette. As shown, simple as to bodice with the ornamentation of shoulder bow and a gracefully flaring skirt hanging from a trimly molded hipline.

New in Footwear for Fall

THE Utopia of a few shoes for a season has departed forever. Footwear firmly sustains the idea of correctness as to time, place and costume.

Street shoes are a little more substantial, although they still preserve a swiftness and graceful outline to the foot. Popular for street wear is the three-eyel Oxford in suede, reptilian leathers, kid or patent. Slip-in pumps in combinations of colors and leathers and open pumps with metallic pipings are of significance.

Formal afternoon attire requires slippers with intricate strapwork or shoes of suede with incrustation of kid and lizard.

Evening slippers of crepe de Chine in contrasting color to the gown are strapped with silver kid or pumps of silver and gold kid are popular. More elaborate type is made entirely of rhinestones either in white or color.

Bankruptcy cost the country more than fires in 1926. And at the same time the fires probably prevented a bankruptcy.

New Paris Blouses Express Poise in Cut and Color

SUITS and ensembles demand that the figure be cut in twin but only to further the two-fold exactions of the mode—rich color and simplicity.

Couturier-sponsored blouses prove that satin outnumbers even printed velvet and lame. But no matter what the fabric, the new models are artful and representative of the age in dress.

Bernard evolves a small blouse from beige satin, self corded to form points of decoration. The neckline closing is finished at the neck-line by a one-sided scarf.

Red crepe in the manner of the bolero is Paquin's conception of color richness, further enlivened by four gold tassels. Jenny creates skilful blouses of satin. Using the surplice as one theme in white, she gains a subtle contrast by an inset border used crosswise of the material. For wear with a black velvet tailleur she suggests a noisette of white crepe satin, and adds a cunning touch by way of a shirred girdle of satin in turquoise blue.

Clever and charming blouses of printed velvet have undeniable elegance. Paquin uses a dot print with simple shirred details at neck and waist. Patou brings forth a creation of silver lame brocade shorn of decoration.

St. Aidan's Is Scene of Pretty Rural Wedding

On Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, St. Aidan's United Church at Mount Tolmie was the scene of a pretty wedding when Epheumia Jean (Eme), the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lindsay, of Mount Tolmie, became the bride of Geoffrey Claude Belbridge, of James Island, B.C., only son of Mrs. Troun, of Gordon Head. The church was beautifully decorated by members of the choir with Autumn foliage, gladioli, Michaelmas daisies and chrysanthemums.

The bride entered on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march, played by the organist. The hymn sung was "Lead us, Heavenly Father, Lead us." The wedding ceremony was performed under an arch and wedding bell, by Rev. David Smith, of Vancouver, an old friend of the bride's family and a former pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Galbraith, the pastor, who pronounced the benediction. The bride looked charming in a dress of white georgette with pearl trimming, and wore a hand-embroidered Brussels net veil, held to her head by a wreath of orange blossoms which fell in soft folds to form a train. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses and white heather tied with streamers. Attending the bride was her only sister, Miss Daisy-Lindsay, wearing a pretty frock of lemon-colored georgette trimmed with a softer shade of lace and a wreath of silver leaves in her hair. Her bouquet was of blue delphiniums, pink roses, pink carnations and fern. Mr. John Chambers supported the groom. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Sidney Shaw sang "I Love You Truly." Ushers were Mr. Robert Lindsay, brother of the bride, and Mr. John Merritt.

A largely-attended reception was held at the St. Aidan's Hall, adjoining the church, which had been elegantly decorated for the occasion by the members of the guild, of which the bride is a member. The bride and groom, standing under a wedding arch and bell, were assisted in receiving their guests by the bride's mother, Mrs. Hugh Lindsay, wearing a smart navy blue georgette dress with silver lace on the hat to match, and Mrs. Troun, mother of the bridegroom, wearing a Paris model frock of rose gold georgette with old gold lace panels and rose glow transparent velvet hat. Each wore the bridegroom's gift of corsage bouquets of roses, violets and eucalyptus. During the reception, in a humorous speech, proposed the health of the bride and groom. Mr. Galbraith also offered congratulations to the bride and groom, and presented a table with flowers and pink candles in silver holders, which were lit when the bride cut the beautifully decorated tiered cake. During the evening Mrs. Berwick and Mrs. Williams rendered solos.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Belbridge left by the midnight boat for Vancouver, on route to Portland, Oregon, where their honeymoon will be spent. Mrs. Belbridge chose for traveling a smart tuxedo suit with close-fitting hat, and wore the bridegroom's gift, a black fox fur. The bride's gift to the groom was a diamond pin. To the bridesmaid the groom presented an onyx ring, to the best man a leather wallet, to the soloists and pianist, brooches. On their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Belbridge will reside on James Island.

The out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. W. Rowbottom, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Willmott, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrie, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rivers, Mrs. Arthur J. Peirce, Miss Barbara Peirce and Messrs. Ishai Dixon, Ernest Rivers, Frank Aldous and Lamont Ross, all of James Island.

ROYAL OAK

There was a good attendance of members and several visitors at the Women's Institute meeting which was held on Wednesday afternoon at St. Michael's Church Hall. Mrs. Pinhorn, president, was in the chair. It was arranged that a committee, to include the president and directors of the local branch, meet Mr. Quick on Monday afternoon to discuss the Community Hall proposition. The president's suggestion that a badminton club be formed was received with enthusiasm and if satisfactory arrangements can be made the services of a coach will be secured. The matter was left in the hands of the president, who will report at the next meeting. A letter from the secretary of the I.D.B. was read acknowledging the receipt of a $10 donation towards current expenses; also a letter from Mrs. Nixon thanking the members for the gift sent during her illness.

A splendid programme has been prepared by Mrs. Booth and Miss Goyette, who have kindly arranged to give a musical recital for the benefit of the Solarium on Wednesday afternoon, October 24, at Mr. A. J. Wedd's home, Elk Lake. Members were asked to interest their friends in the affair that a good attendance may be assured. Mrs. Oldfield reported the sum of $32 realized from the rummage sale of last Saturday, which was considered very good for a rainy morning. It is hoped to increase the above amount considerably, and to that end a series of afternoon recitals is being arranged.

Members reported that the swings and seesaw which they had caused to be erected in the school grounds were giving much pleasure to the children. The sum of $5 was voted to help defray bus transportation to St. Michael's Sunday school for the children wishing to attend from outlying districts. An invitation was received from Langford Institute inviting the members of Royal Oak Institute to a social evening on October 17. At the close of the business session a candy demonstration was given by Mrs. B. Deacon, of Sidney, which was much appreciated. The various processes being followed with interest by the on-lookers. A large committee of owners and campers resident in Victoria are co-operating with the residents of Brentwood Bay to raise a sufficient sum of money to place beaches and pools at the foot of Marchant Road and that part of the bay formerly known as Moodyville.

The committee is anxious to get the work under way next Spring so that the beaches and pools will be ready for the children in the Summer.

Many Victorians and their families have spent many enjoyable days at this popular beauty spot whom the committee feel sure will give their support to the fund. Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund apart from the concert and dance may do so by sending their contributions to Wallace & Archer, 1239 Broad Street, J. P. Fowler, Beehive store, Douglas Street, or G. C. Grant, Times Office.

Ten Players Break Eighty in Challoner & Mitchell Cup Round—A. S. G. Musgrave Turns in 72 Gross to Top Field With Net 62

Some remarkably fine scoring was registered by Victoria Golf Club players yesterday, when the qualifying rounds of the Challoner & Mitchell Cup were held. In fact, the scoring was so good that one member, who broke eighty, failed to make the Cup final. This might be augmented by another player who trotted around in the seventies, and who was tied for the last place with five others.

Never before in the history of the competition has such a flock of low scores been turned in. Ten players bettered eighty in gross scoring. A. S. G. Musgrave, the medalist, topped the field with a brilliant 72. His score with a ten handicap gave him a net 62, and put him in front of the field by three strokes in net scoring. A. V. Price, with 75-10-65, was second, while H. H. Shupe, with 78-12-66, was next in line. Norm Thornton, Fell had the second best gross, a 74.

FIVE IN TIE
One net score of 70 will make the Cup final. Five, J. Hutchinson, Jr., H. G. Garrett, Harry Crane, Harold Haynes and E. F. Gillespie will play off this morning for the last place. Judging from the net scores, it would appear that the handicap committee knew its handicapping. Net scoring was so bunched that it was some time before it was known who would make the select flight.

There were seventy-three entries for the event, one of the heaviest since the trophy was donated to the club. The draw for match play has been made, and players are requested to complete their matches as early as possible.

Storch Winner When Spruston Is Injured

Up-Islander Breaks Thumb in Main Event of Amateur Card—Frankie Neel Outboxes Shoul-dice at Tillicum Club Show

Fighting in the main event of the Tillicum Athletic Club's opening season, Art Spruston, of Ladysmith, fractured his right thumb in the initial round of his three-round bout with Charlie Storch, of Victoria, and had to retire. Storch was declared the winner. Spruston weighed 155 and Storch 160.

In the semi-windup Frank Hall, local battler, was given the referee's decision over Bob Sanderson, of Ladysmith. One judge marked his card a draw and the other gave it to Hall. The bout produced plenty of heavy slugging, with the Victoria boy having a slight edge.

Frank Neel, 114 pounds, outboxed Wilfred Shoul-dice, 122 pounds, to gain the judges' decision. Shoul-dice failed to do much early mixing, but opened up in the last round when it was too late.

Making his first appearance in a local ring, Sonny Buxton, 5th R.C.A. (C.A.), was given the judges' decision over George Kula, of Ladysmith, after three rounds of heavy mulling. They fought at 155 pounds.

QUITS IN FIRST ROUND

"Red" Crab took a couple of nasty blows to the head, then came back and bumped into a nasty straight left and decided he had had enough for one night, so he quit in the first round of his scheduled three-round bout with Bob Hawkes.

Billy Manka, of Ladysmith, gave Jimmy Murray, of Victoria, more than a boxing lesson in their three-round mix and had no difficulty in winning the judges' decision. Murray took plenty of punishment and was shaky at the final bell. The boys fought at 120 pounds.

Fighting at 85 pounds, Billie Lewis, younger brother of Dave Lewis, earned a draw with Arthur Coates. Lewis carried the fight to his opponent all of the way and landed the more telling blows.

Clarence Leask and Herbert Sutton, a pair of coming pugilistic stars, put on an interesting bout, with the former being given the referee's decision. The boys mixed freely throughout. They weighed 85 pounds.

The show opened with an exhibition bout between Jack and Donald McQueen, at 85 pounds.

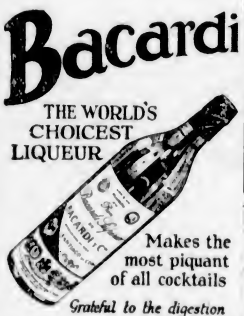

P.O. Kerr, R.N., was the third man in the ring for all bouts, while Bob Vipond and Roy Baker acted as judges.

Kerrigan Failed by Inches to Hole Ace of 352 Yards

Would Have Set at Naught Britisher's Recent Record of 340 Yards—Other Long Shots.

By HUNKER

Probably Britishers are correct in assuming that the 340-yard hole-in-one made by George Kirby, the Southampton professional, on the ninth hole of the Stoneham course recently is the longest ever played. Records are incomplete, and while I dimly recollect having heard of a golfer on this side of the water who scored an ace on a hole well above 300 yards in length, I have no definite data on the feat.

My own records show no hole-in-one longer than that achieved by Tom Washington, the Caldwell, N.J., professional.

Playing with Morris Sachs on the Overbrook course near Newark, N.J., Washington drove the green of the 255-yard thirteenth hole, but when he came up he couldn't find his ball. Sachs, meantime, had driven 200 yards and then pitched his ball two feet from the cup for a sure three.

"By George," said he to Tom, "if you beat me here you'll have to hole a two."

This was highly improbable, for it appeared that Washington's ball inches of making a hole penable ace than that of Kirby, the Britisher. Playing his home course, Siwanoy, he smashed a magnificent drive on the eighth hole, measuring 252 yards. The ball rolled right up to the cup. If it had gone in, Tommy certainly would have had something to boast about.

All his shots were dead on the line that day. He shot the round in sixty-three.

Jock Hutchison came near to making the longest hole-in-one ever recorded in a major championship. In the 1921 British Open, at St. Andrews, his ball rolled up and hit the cup on the 280-yard ninth hole, but still had a little too much power in it and bounced out.

He had made an ace on the 135-yard eighth hole. This shot helped him to tie Roger Wethered for the title, and Jock won it in the play-off. If he had made the 280-yard shot, there would have been no play-off.

Angel de La Torre, former Spanish champion, who now is located near New York, holed an ace of 240 yards on the thirteenth hole at Addington, in England. Sir Michael Scott sank his tee shot on the fifteenth hole at Le Touquet, in France. In fact, there have been many number of aces scored up to distances of 225 to 240 yards. After you pass that point, however, they are not so frequent, one reason being that there are comparatively few golfers who get drives above 240 yards.

WONDERFUL SHOT

One of the most remarkable of the long shots was Paddy Dowle's. It was engineered in a special match back in Scotland many years ago. Paddy was playing Davy Watt, the famous old Edinburgh left-hander, and a pot of money was bet on the result, which was in doubt until the seventeenth hole was reached.

There Paddy scored an ace. It was 250 yards long and broke Davy Watt's back for he birdied on the same hole. Paddy won the match, one up. Under such conditions his hole-in-one was extremely remarkable. It was long the subject of interested conversation.

Any ace that is around 200 yards in length certainly belongs in the category of major holes-in-one. For that reason the record made by Milton Bowman, of Siwanoy, is unique. Bowman in a club tournament twice holed aces of 195 yards length on the thirteenth hole.

The racehorse Hindoo was the best thoroughbred that has appeared in this country in the last fifty years, according to John E. Madden, whose success as a breeder has been unexcelled for thirty years or more.

LOCAL RESIDENT PRAISES PLAN OF LEGION TOUR

Recent Pilgrimage to Western Front Was Remarkable Success, Mrs. Drinkle Says

EVERY DETAIL WAS CAREFULLY PLANNED

Mrs. W. Drinkle, of Richmond Avenue, who has just returned from accompanying the British Empire Service League pilgrimage to the battlefields, has called on Mr. James Blair, president of the Britannia Branch, to thank him for the kindness she received at the hands of the various officials with whom she came in contact in England.

Mrs. Drinkle stated that she was well aware that had it not been for the arrangements made by the branch, of which Mr. Drinkle is a member, it would hardly have been possible for her to have completed her arrangements in time.

VISIT SON'S GRAVE
One thing that impressed itself on her memory was that a special automobile was provided for her to go and visit the grave of Sgt. W. Drinkle, M.M., 7th Battalion, P.F., being her son, at the Mayne-court British Cemetery, though she was the only visitor to go to that particular cemetery, and she considered the opportunity to visit his grave was one which might never again offer.

One special feature which she could not help noting was the admirable manner in which all the arrangements were made from the time that she left Manchester by special train to the time she returned to that town, everything went off without a hitch, and never a meal was even late.

Mrs. Drinkle stated it was very difficult to understand how the

B.E.S.L. could possibly have staged such a pilgrimage at the low cost, especially taking into consideration the excellent manner in which the pilgrims were looked after and housed and fed.

The journeyings of the pilgrims in France was an experience which she would never forget, and it was obvious the French people had not forgotten the support given the nation by the British Empire during the Great War.

GOOD ORGANIZATION

The scheme of organization was really magnificent, each official, all of whom were honorary, played up to what was expected of him, and Major Harter, D.S.O., the honorary secretary, had even arranged with the clerk of the weather for brilliant sunshine throughout the trip.

Each pilgrim was presented with a booklet containing instructions, together with tickets, passports, identification tabs stating they were made throughout the trip for any wanderers to be immediately returned to the nearest base. The details contained in the booklet were down to the last minute, even advising that travelers were expected to provide their own soap.

The far-flung outposts of the Empire were well represented, and it was some indication from how widely divergent points the pilgrims came, remarked Mrs. Drinkle, when she recalled her chief companion on the trip was a lady from Australia. It seemed that the officials of the B.E.S.L. went out of their way to pay more attention to the overseas pilgrims, if that was possible, than they did to those coming from the Old Country.

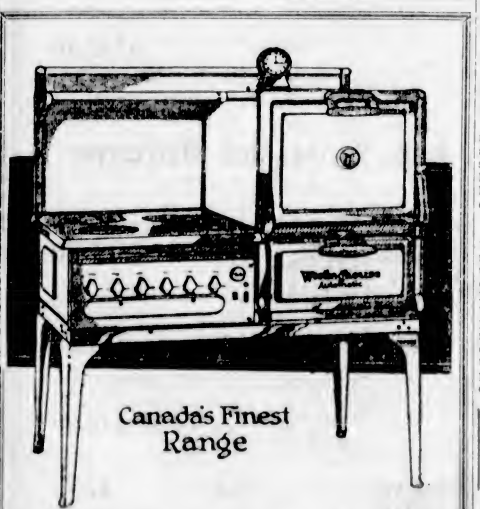

AT MENIN GATE
The party to which Mrs. Drinkle was attached was a little way distant from the Menin Gate itself, but they had an excellent view, and the manner in which everybody took part in the march past before H.H.H. the Prince of Wales was simply marvellous. This was undoubtedly the main feature of the whole pilgrimage, and any person who participated could not help a certain feeling of awe at the impressive nature of this ceremony.

It is not to be understood that the lighter side of the trip was not looked after, as the booklet furnished contained well-known marching hymns and a large number of songs for community singing.

A cry in the night holds no terror for the household where there's Castoria. A few drops, and Baby's sudden ailment is relieved. Your little one is comforted, and you have done only what any nurse or any doctor would have told you to do. For Castoria is a vegetable product; made for babies, and the one safe means of quieting any infant. It is not a narcotic, it contains no opiate, yet it always comforts a child.

Don't let night come without a bottle of Castoria on hand; it's a mighty comfortable feeling to know it's in the house. And it is an ever-ready aid when any of the children are constipated, have colic, develop a case of diarrhea. Old and tried, but the standby of modern mothers. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

STATE MEDICINE IN THE OFFING

Hospital Costs in Serious Illness Beyond Pockets of Average Canadian

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—The great middle class of wage-earners and salaried persons in Canada simply cannot pay for the hospital costs which serious illness nowadays involves, in the opinion of many physicians. The practical remedy suggested is health insurance, involving a state tax. Already, legislation along this line is predicted in British Columbia at next session. The subject is aired in the current issue of The Canadian Medical Association Journal.

In Ontario, developments may be slower. The Canadian Medical Association, at its annual meeting in Charlottetown, adopted certain important resolutions in its current session, one of which was the appointment of a subcommittee, of which Dr. George S. Young, Toronto, is chairman, to carry them forward. Dr. Young states that certain facts were to be ascertained and a report made, but that nothing is in shape at present.

The Government has not been approached and Hon. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, points to the scale upon which "State Medicine" is already carried out in the province, through laboratory services, special clinics, and work in the sparsely populated sections. Premier Ferguson, although he has had no occasion to study the problem intensively, is inclined to the view that "state medicine" involves paternalism to an undesirable degree.

FORESEEN BY PHYSICIANS
Nevertheless, the Canadian Medical Association Journal, in its current issue, asks the question, editorially, "Is State Medicine in the Offing?" Many individual doctors say "Yes," and it is not because they desire it.

Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, chief medical officer of Ontario, is on record in the proceedings of the Medical Association convention at Charlottetown in these words: "Medical aid should be made readily available to those unable to pay for it, or for whom it is not now available, by a system of state insurance, made to approximate as closely as possible to that of private practice, to which the individual of below a certain earning power, the employer and the state should contribute."

"State medicine is coming," declares a physician who is a member of the Ontario Legislature. "We have 20 per cent more now than thirty years ago."

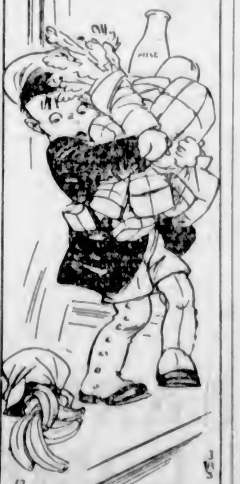

"The public is inarticulate, but someone will come along looking for political power and use some such scheme as a bait for votes," was the opinion of Dr. H. E. Ridewood, of Victoria, conveyed to the annual meeting of the Medical Association.

CHANGE IN HOSPITAL WORK
A great change has come over hospital work in the past thirty years, and medical science has become a highly complex affair, requiring special buildings and a highly-trained staff, anaesthetics and antiseptics, X-rays, clinical laboratories and other advances to which, it is claimed, neither the profession nor the public have adjusted themselves. Hospital bills for a major operation or serious illness in the family of the average wage-earner too often impose a financial burden which may not be overcome for years, if ever. The doctors say so themselves.

Here are the conclusions of the committee on municipal physicians, given at end of a lengthy report to the Canadian Medical Association: "1. That there is unrest on the part of the public."
"2. That the urge for change in the application of medical science is here, and more apparent in some parts of Canada than others."
"3. That while there have been many changes in our social structure and also many changes within the science of medicine itself during the last quarter-century, there has been little or no change in the method of applying it."

REPORT APPROVED
"We would therefore respectfully urge that council consider the immediate formation of a commission to look into the cause, origin and causes underlying the present public unrest and dissatisfaction with the practice of medicine as at present applied, and that sufficient money be secured to keep this commission at work during the entire year if necessary, and for this purpose the assistance of the Government, both Federal and provincial, might with propriety be asked, people possibly more than the profession itself. The report was approved and the association appointed a sub-committee to "take steps to carry out the suggestions already approved by council, as contained in the report of the committee, as far as this may be feasible." It consists of Doctors George S. Young, Toronto; G. Stewart Cameron, Peterborough; J. G. Fitzgerald, Toronto; and H. H. Murphy, Kamloops.

"We have state medicine now in a very important phase," commented Hon. Forbes Godfrey. "Our provincial laboratories supply every specific serum free, and the service is available to every doctor. We have everything they need. The department's function is to help in every way. Issue of typhoid serum and the Wasserman test, and that sort of thing costs us $180,000 a year. Look at the cases in which we have dispatched serum for rabies. Doctors may use our laboratories in this way, irrespective of whether patients are well-to-do or poor."

REDUCTION OF MORTALITY

"When I began to practice at Munich diphtheria mortality was 35 to 40 per cent. Nowadays it is about two per cent. It is so with the toxoids, the Schick test and everything else. There is 'state medicine' for you, in helping the physician to help his patient—and laboratory service is growing better and better. Of course, modern medicine has advanced rapidly, and if a physician is satisfied to rest on his oars he will soon find himself away behind the times."

Cost of this laboratory service has been reduced in many respects. Dr. J. W. S. McCullough points out that diphtheria serum, originally costing $20 for a dose, is now turned out for $1.20. He has been connected with the building up of the provincial laboratory system since 1906, and sees in its service to the public a most practical and valuable form of "state medicine."

In regard to complaints that medical graduates seek to specialize and endeavor to find practice in large centres, Dr. McCullough expresses the opinion that all should first go into general practice.

DECREASE IN PRACTITIONERS

The number of practicing physicians in Canada as a whole, and in almost every province, has increased substantially. Registration in medicine at the University of Toronto was reported as showing a decrease of twenty-nine. Manitoba has passed legislation permitting financial inducements to doctors to remain in sparsely settled localities, and nineteen are now so bonused by the province. This expedient is not favored by members of the Ontario Government.

ABRIDGEMENT EXPEDIENT

A comedian was rehearsing his part in a new play, the author of which was present. Once or twice the actor inserted jokes of his own. "My dear boy," the author said to him, "be good enough to speak my lines and wait for the laugh."

"All right," said the comedian sorrowfully, "but my last train goes at midnight."

"John," said a gentleman to his manservant, "I am always forgetting to bring home a lemon-squeezer from Lynn. Will you remind me in the morning when I am starting?"

"Yes, sir," said John. Next morning the gentleman was kissing his wife good-bye at the door when John appeared on the scene and shouted, "Squeezer, Sir."

BISHOP BURNS THE MORTGAGE

St. Alban's Congregation Has Happy Harvest Festival in Celebrating Freedom From Debt

MANY WORKERS ARE HONORED

A very enjoyable supper on Tuesday night brought St. Alban's Harvest Festival to a close. The burning of the mortgage on the building was an added cause of thanksgiving. The Rt. Rev. Charles Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, was present, also the Venerable Archdeacon Laycock and the rector of the parish, Rev. N. E. Smith.

About 120 partook of an excellent supper daintily prepared and served by the Ladies' Guild. Many of the appetizing dishes had been given by members and friends of the congregation. After the loyal toast there was a silence in remembrance of members of the congregation called to rest.

The chairman, Mr. J. W. Leighton, expressed the pleasure felt by all in having the Bishop with them, and led the company in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. Fred Wright kindly contributed to the entertainment with several songs. Mrs. Chappell caused much amusement with a recitation, "How We Raised the Mortgage," and Mr. J. Mantelov gave a flute solo.

The chairman remarked with regret the absence through sickness of "The Major," Rev. W. Barton, and of Mr. G. Bridges, whose work detained him at Sooke. They were glad, he said, to see among them Mr. Bridges, Sr. He also welcomed Mr. and Mrs. H. Alnutt.

Mr. J. Baron told of the early days of the mission. In the course of his remarks he paid a strong tribute to the great part played by the Ladies' Guild.

The Bishop, congratulating St. Alban's on clearing their debt, said they must consider tonight as a milestone on the way to a complete church. Two of the original signatories, Mr. T. Baron and Mr. W. F. Bridges, with Mrs. Andrews, president of the Ladies' Guild, held the bonds for the Bishop while His Lordship ignited them. A verse of "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," was then sung with a full heart and was followed by the Doxology.

A vote of thanks to the Bishop, proposed by the minister's warden, Mr. J. Comber, was carried with hearty applause.

The rector proposed a vote of love to Rev. W. Barton, Mr. H. R. Patterson, seconding, spoke of all "The Major" meant to St. Alban's. Archdeacon Laycock, in moving a vote of thanks to the ladies who had provided the feast, spoke of his recent travels East and South. His speech, in which humorous and serious were delightfully blended, was eloquent of vital influence played by the ladies

Bishop of Niagara Blessing Sundial

Memories of two great Canadians, Sir Edmund and Sir William Oaker, were recalled in Dundas, Ontario, their birthplace, with the unveiling of a memorial sundial at the Ellen Oaker Memorial Home to the late Lieutenant Colonel Oaker and Mrs. Oaker. The latter was a sister of the Bishop of Niagara blessing the sundial. The father of the famous Oaker family was a clergyman of the Church of England.

In many places and diverse ways. Mr. Alnutt seconded the motion, which was enthusiastically carried with three cheers by the men.

A vote of appreciation was accorded the minister. Mr. Leighton, replying, asked the company to stand for prayer that the good thing thus begun might "be forward under the blessing of God."

Children's Day Recalls Great Changes

The third Sunday in October is set aside by the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada, in order to bring before the members of the church the importance of religious education and of providing the board in charge with adequate funds for promoting this most important work.

Rev. R. A. Hiltz, M.A., D.C.L., general secretary of the board, in a recent number of The Canadian Churchman, recites the striking advance that has taken place since the Church of England in Canada first organized its educational work twenty years ago.

In 1908 there was no literature available for any of the organized departments of the Sunday school. No official lesson course, no generally recognized standard for training teachers, no course of instruction in religious education in most of the theological colleges. No systematic plan for reaching the older boys and girls, no Summer schools, no central bureau of information nor any general field work being done.

In marked contrast he sketches the situation in 1928. Most of the dioceses have an active board of religious education and every department of Sunday school work has suitable literature provided for it; there are official courses of study in even department together with required lesson helps; a correspondence course in teacher training and courses of study in religious pedagogy to be given in the home logical and Summer schools abound.

A notable advance has been made in reaching the scattered districts by means of vans and Sunday school by post. A field secretary is at work in Western Canada and a similar appointment for Eastern Canada has just been made. In addition a monthly magazine, The Church Messenger, has been established with news of the church and other general good reading. A wide range of studies are available for nominal rental through the lantern bureau.

Children's Day falls this year on October 21.

Christendom the World Over

One of the more recent products of the evangelization of King Khama's country in South Central Africa, is the attainment of the degree of Bachelor of Divinity of London University by a member of the Bechuana tribe, a black African by the name of Kgaleman T. Moseti. This is the first time that this degree has been won by an African. Mr. Moseti's sister was adopted after his mother's death by King Khama the Good, and her brother was in and out of the chief's house before he went at eleven years of age to the Tigerbrook Institute of the London Missionary Society. Mr. Moseti intends to go back next year to his people as teacher and pastor under the same society that gave him his education.

A SIGNIFICANT LETTER
The London Times published recently a letter signed by thirteen well known Anglicans who represent various shades of opinions within the Church of England, in which they state that after conference they parted with the conviction that both Anglo-Catholics and Evangelicals have their legitimate place in the Church of England, and that there is equally legitimate justification for their growth and development. "It is our strong conviction," they further state, "that the extension of mutual understanding in all directions is essential to the world mission of the Anglican communion." The signatories include the editors of The Church Times and The Church of England Newspaper, also Canon Raven, Father Talbot of the Mildred Community, Canon Garfield Williams and Canon E. S. Woods.

STUDENTS ANTI-CHRISTIAN
Discussing the reasons for the anti-Western and anti-Christian attitude of many Chinese, a writer in The Christian Century states that the students, who do much to form public opinion, are largely agnostic if not atheist. The result of a questionnaire sent out by a missionary in Japan to a group of university students as to their religious affiliation, showed that 90 per cent of those who replied frankly, admitted that they did not believe in God at all. The writer goes on to state that the great majority of students in all the Oriental lands have given up their old religions and are facing life as pure materialists. The influence of the Christian schools is to make their own students Christian, but these schools make up a very small part of the whole in China, probably about 5 per cent of the total educational institutions of the country.

WHEN CALLED "PASTORS"?
Raising the query as to when Non-conformist ministers were first called "pastors," The Christian World states that in the first half of the eighteenth century the London newspapers always spoke of "Dissenting preachers," "Dissenting preachers," or if the editors were Church or Tory, "Dissenting teachers." The earliest use, it is thought, of the term "pastor" was in Read's Weekly Journal in 1754, in which it occurs three times in a year. One of these instances is in reference to the inscription on the monument of Dr. James Foster in Bunhill Fields, where John Bunyan is interred.

BETTER SELLER THAN EVER
Never, except in one of the years of the war (1915, when the figure was 2,000,000) has the British and Foreign Bible Society issued so many copies of Scripture in the home language as during the past year. The record is 2,213,467, made up of 574,938 Bibles, 409,401 New Testaments, and 1,229,488 portions, an increase of over 500,000 on the preceding year. This increase is chiefly due to augmented orders received from Canada and Australia. Actually, 1,270,080 volumes were sent abroad for circulation, mainly within the British Empire, and 995,000 in the Motherland. Canada took 111,000 volumes in foreign tongues and 335,000 in English, an angle is a threefold increase in the last two decades. The Canadian Society has ten Bible houses from St. John to Vancouver. The canon from Canada to the parent society was $13,820. Dock distribution to incoming passengers numbered 41,062 in twenty-four different languages. The sight of their own mother tongue brings smiles to the faces of these strangers on a strange shore.

ANADIAN CHURCH ITEMS
To carry 1,200 to 1,500 members of the British Free Churchmen, and White Star steamer has been already chartered for a fraternal pilgrimage to Canada next June, the delegates to spend eight days in Eastern Canada as the guests of the United Church of Canada.

Of the $1,500,000 required for the enlargement of McMaster University, which is preparing to move from Toronto to Hamilton, all but $200,000 has been raised and that balance may be provided for before the end of this month. The city of Hamilton held daily Bible vacation schools at ten cents the past summer with an attendance of 1,692. A total staff of seventy-one was required at a cost of $1,759. Winnipeg had twelve centres, most of them co-operative, and successful schools were held in Brandon, Port William, Port Arthur and Swan River, over 1,600 children having been reached by this method of instruction. The general programme was similar to that followed in the City Temple enterprise of this city, of which mention was made two weeks ago in The Colonist.

A resolution of sympathy in connection with the death of Rev. Drs. Edmund and Manning, home mission secretaries of the United Church, was passed at the annual meeting in Hamilton of the Council of Social Service of the Church of England, in which the hearty co-operation received was especially mentioned.

A cairn will be erected at Pictou, Nova Scotia, upon the spot where the Rev. Dr. McGregor, the Presbyterian pioneer, preached his first sermon in Canada on July 24, 1786, the 141st anniversary of which was attended by over 2,000 people last Summer. Two sermons were delivered, one in English and one in Gaelic, both from the original texts of Dr. McGregor.

Well Known Salvation Army Officer Dies

LIUTENANT-COLONEL BRAMWELL TAYLOR O.B.E.
Former editor-in-chief of The War Cry, who died in Winnipeg, Saturday, following a long illness of several months. Mr. Taylor had been an officer in the Salvation Army for the past twenty years, and was about to be transferred to San Francisco to take charge of the training school there.

PHONING FROM THE ZOO
By telephoning from the zoo a London business man has lost a lifelong reputation for sobriety. Says The Daily Chronicle, "Winnipeg to ring up his office he was told that the public telephone was in the Lion House. Unfortunately it was the lions' house when he got through, and his confidential clerk said: 'Sorry, sir, but I can't hear you. What is that strange noise?' 'It's the lions roaring,' replied the business man. 'I beg your pardon, sir.' 'It's the lions roaring.' 'Yes, sir,' said the clerk soothingly. And this day the office staff think their respected employer was not quite well that afternoon, when really he was spending a blameless afternoon at the zoo.

A CASE OF GRATITUDE
The solicitor had conducted a case for his client, and the client called to pay his fees. "How much do I owe you?" he asked. "Your father and I were old friends," said the solicitor. "Let's say £30." "Thank Heaven you didn't know my grandfather," said the client.

Bozo—Two years ago I could have bought that valuable piece of property for a song.
Bimbo—And you couldn't sing, eh?
Bozo—Oh, I could sing, but I couldn't get the right notes.

He: "If I had known how sarcastic you were, I would never have married you."
She: "You had an opportunity of noticing it. Didn't I say 'This is so sudden' when you proposed to me after a three years' courtship?"

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to ensure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

ADELPHI IS UNDER FEAR OF REMOVAL

Relic of Adam Brothers' Architecture in Eighteenth Century Is Believed to Be Doomed

FAMOUS TERRACE HAS MEMORIES

American Hotel Is Thought to Be Planned to Occupy Site Between Strand and Embankment

By ROSE PATTERSON
Staff Correspondent of The Colonist and The North American Newspaper Alliance.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The famous Thames-side Adelphi Terrace, which still houses Sir James Barrie and the renowned Savage Club, and which was until recently the home of George Bernard Shaw, soon may be swept away.

It has been rumored from time to time that an American hotel may raise its head on the Adelphi's grave. The Freemasons, too, were considering the site for a great temple.

However, the new report of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings reveals that when this well-known London terrace was put up for sale, no bid reached a sum the owners could accept, so its fate is still in the balance.

Behind the Strand and overlooking the Thames Embankment, Peter Pan's creator lives in his shy seclusion in these famous buildings, which Shaw left for a newer home in Whitehall Court.

Barrie himself soon may be compelled to seek a new flat. But the walls of the Savage Club, one of the oldest in London, are lined with spears and weapons of all kinds, and it is said every member will arm himself to the teeth in common resistance against any order to quit.

On the Terrace, also, is the British Drama League (which now has 3,000 members) with its delightful yellow Adam library, old marble mantelpiece, lovely ceiling and all—one of the few Adam ceilings with a painting in the centre.

If Adelphi must pass, with it will pass one of the finest relics of an age of elegance, of panels and medallions delicately painted by Angelica Kauffman, Zucchi and Pergolesi; of graceful houses designed in subdued colorings by the taste and genius of Robert Adam; of beautiful chairs, of saloons and mahogany. It appears that nothing short of its purchase by the nation as a monument can secure the preservation of Adelphi.

Although the design and situation of Adelphi Terrace make it a feature of London none can ignore, there are few who realize the delicate beauty given this row of houses by the Adam brothers. Perhaps this is because the river front was disfigured in the seventies of the last century by the false cement decorations beloved of that period.

UNIQUE TO LONDON
The Adelphi group of streets and buildings is built upon arches and bounded north by John Street and south by the famous Adelphi Terrace front. There is nothing quite like it anywhere else in London, nor will there be.

Its Greek name signifies "brothers." Four brothers, Robert, John, James and William Adam, sons of a Scottish architect, bought the estate of Durham Yard (once the garden of one of the Strand palaces) in 1768, when nothing was there but unprofitable ruins, washed by the mud of the Thames. There were no Embankment Gardens then, and no Embankment. Steps led down from the Strand to the wharves, the ground sloping steeply to the river.

The brothers planned a series of well-built streets on the Strand level, with a high and noble terrace overlooking the river. The river then was an important thoroughfare, and the wharves had to be considered. To raise their site the brothers built a series of mighty brick arches, and arranged for a spacious archway to connect the wharves with the Strand.

These arches have been compared with the vaulted subterranean channels beneath Rome, which have done duty as sewers for 2,500 years. Their condition is probably as good as when they were constructed.

They were underpinned and strengthened in 1872-4.

The high tide interfered with the Adam brothers' progress, flooding the arches, but they obtained permission to embark the river from the south-west corner of the buildings, called the Savoy, as far as the southeast corner of York Buildings. The citizens of London also interfered. They resented what they considered an encroachment on their waterway, and their feelings were expressed in the following lampoon, which shows that the river was still regarded as a vital highway for trade:

"Four Scotchmen, by the name of Adams, who keep their coaches and their madams," Quoth John, in sulky mood to Thomas,
"Have stole the very river from us!"
O Scotland, long has it been said,
Thy teeth are sharp for English bread;
What, seize our bread and water too,
And use us worse than jailors do!"

But the brothers completed the work, though they eventually had to sell their landed property for funds.

THE OLD RIVER BOATS
In the seventies of last century the old Endeavour was running on the Thames—"the ha'penny (one cent) boat" from London Bridge to Adelphi Archway. One used to land on barges and walk through the arches—very dark they must have been, with their one little gas jet inside—right up to the Strand. Endeavour, Jupiter and Cricket were the three boats on this service, the tug Cricket finally being blown up one night as she lay head on to Tower stairs, where her master had gone ashore for a drink.

One of the most curious streets in London is that which slopes steeply down from the Strand, beside the Tivoli motion picture theatre (and beside the old Tivoli stage door) and winds darkly under John Street into the wide arch that leads to the Adam embankment, and which led in the old days to the wharves. This dim, gas-lit, cobble lane is a place of ghosts. Before the Tivoli motion picture theatre was built, many of the years ago, they were the haunt of rogues and cut-throats, and the shelter of outcasts and vagrants.

To-day, the merchants store their precious wares under the arches, their tuns, pipes and barrels now lying where the Huguenot jewels once were stored, and the patents, title deeds and plate of many of the nobility and gentry.

There is a restful charm about the old, cloister-like avenues, and it is sad to think of the Adelphi in the hands of the housebreaker.

PRODUCTION HAS SMALL DECLINE

192 Sawmills in Pacific Northwest Report on Cut for Week Ending October 6

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 13.—Production, orders, and shipments for 192 major mills of the Douglas fir region in Washington, Oregon, and British Columbia were reported to the West Coast Lumbermen's Association for the week ended October 6, as follows:

Production, 181,412,469 board feet; orders, 177,638,861 board feet; shipments, 162,030,877 board feet.

Orders were 2.1 per cent under production, and shipments were 10.6 per cent under cutting. Production was slightly below that reported by the same number of mills for the preceding week. Orders and shipments also were reported less than for the previous week.

Orders were 6.80 per cent over production for the four-week period ending October 6; and shipments were 3.07 per cent under.

Stocks on hand are reported to the association as 25.2 per cent below those of May 1. Unfilled orders for 187 identical mills reached a total of 625,592,954 board feet, an increase of 5.36 per cent over the total for the preceding week.

INVENTORIES LOWER
Detailed inventories carried by the association for 102 mills show that for the twenty-two-week period from May 1 to September 29, stocks of lumber on hand decreased from 1,266,385,323 feet to 947,601,513 feet, a reduction of 25.18 per cent, or 25.2 per cent. Orders received by the same 102 mills for the twenty-two-week period were eleven per cent over production, while shipments exceeded production by 13.5 per cent.

Production reports from 233 major mills show that production at these plants for the week ended October 6 was 201,686,138 feet, or 14.48 per cent under their normal operating capacity of 231,686,138 feet, as established by three-year records. For the forty weeks of this year, these mills have produced 18.96 per cent under their normal operating capacity.

Esquimalt Liberals
The Esquimalt Liberal Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at headquarters on Government Street tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. An election of officers for the ensuing year and amendment of section 8 of the constitution will take place.

The scene was a street corner political harangue.
"And what about our foreign relations?" one asked.
"Humph," was the rejoinder, "you ought to see some of the domestic relations who come to our house."

Lucky?

When she comes to the footlights to acknowledge Broadway's applause for her marvelous dancing in "Side-walks of New York," the actress sits forward to admire her youthful charms; the fresh crispness of her rose-petal skin and her gleaming black hair. She's Virginia Clark, of 143 Twenty-Third Street, Jackson Heights, New York City.

"When friends say I'm lucky to have such clear skin and soft, shining hair," says Miss Clark, "I have to tell them it isn't luck at all. In my case, it's the result of care. For my hair, I use the simple method that's all the rage among New York girls now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. This makes my scalp feel just grand and keeps away all dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so clean I don't have to shampoo nearly as often as I did. It makes my hair soft and easy to dress; holds it in place; and gives it more lustre than brilliantine!"

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; makes it fairly sparkle. Danderine disappears when you use Danderine. Waves, set with it, stay in longer. It isn't oily and doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 3½c bottles. Over five million used a year!
